An Aviary Of Small Birds Oxford Poets:

An Aviary of Small Birds Karen McCarthy Woolf, 2014 An Aviary of Small Birds is both elegy to a stillborn son and testament to the redemptive qualities of poetry as a transformative art. The book opens at the birth which paradoxically becomes the moment of death when after a long labor and an emergency caesarean the baby's heart gives out. For the mother her body flooded with endorphins euphoria gives way to shock followed by an intense and visceral grief. However just as grief itself is not linear so too the book follows an emotional rather than a strictly chronological arc lyric rather than narrative. At the same time Karen McCarthy Woolf's debut work is a formal experimentation that allows an intellectual and metaphysical line of enquiry to emerge. Ultimately it is a closely felt connection with the natural world particularly with water and birds which allows the author to transcend the experience while honoring the spirit of her son. Anthropocene

Poetry Yvonne Reddick, 2023-11-03 Anthropocene Poetry Place Environment and Planet argues that the idea of the Anthropocene is inspiring new possibilities for poetry. It can also change the way we read and interpret poems. If environmental poetry was once viewed as linked to place this book shows how poets are now grappling with environmental issues from the local to the planetary climate change and the extinction crisis nuclear weapons and waste plastic pollution and the petroleum industry. This book intervenes in debates about culture and science traditional poetic form and experimental ecopoetics to show how poets are collaborating with environmental scientists and joining environmental activist movements to respond to this time of crisis. From the canonical work of Ted Hughes and Seamus Heaney to award winning poets Alice Oswald Pascale Petit Kei Miller and Karen McCarthy Woolf this book explores major figures from the past alongside acclaimed contemporary voices. It reveals Seamus Heaney's support for conservation causes and Ted Hughes's astonishingly forward thinking research on climate change. It discusses how Pascale Petit has given poetry to Extinction Rebellion and how Karen McCarthy Woolf set sail with scientists to write about plastic pollution. This book deploys research on five poetry archives in the UK USA and Ireland and the author's insider insights into the commissioning processes and collaborative methods that shaped important contemporary poetry publications. Anthropocene Poetry finds that environmental poetry is flourishing in the face of ecological devastation. Such poetry speaks of the anxieties and dilemmas of our age and searches for paths towards resilience and resistance. Homes and Haunts of the Most Eminent British Poets

Gannon, 2009-11-01. A Native rereading of both British Romanticism and mainstream Euro American ecocriticism, this cross-cultural transatlantic study of literary imaginings about birds sets the agenda for a more sophisticated and nuanced ecocriticism. Lakota critic Thomas C. Gannon explores how poets and nature writers in Britain and Native America have incorporated birds into their writings. He discerns an evolution in humankind's representations and attitudes toward other species by examining the avian images and tropes in British Romantic and Native American literatures and by considering how such literary treatment succeeds from an ecological or animal rights perspective. Such depictions, Gannon argues, reveal much about underlying cultural and historical relationships with the Other, whether other species or other peoples. He elucidates the changing interconnections between birds and humans in British Romanticism from Cowper to Clare, with particular attention to Wordsworth, Coleridge, Shelley, Byron, and Keats. Gannon then considers how birds are imagined by Native writers, including early Lakota authors and contemporary poets such as Linda Hogan and Joy Harjo. Ultimately, he shows how the sensitive and far-reaching connections with nature forged by Native American writers encourage a more holistic reimagining of humankind's relationship to other animals.
