

This image displays a variety of components and tools related to carburetors. The central item is a complete carburetor assembly featuring a silver-colored body and a prominent yellow air filter element. To its left is a black plastic air filter housing. Below the main unit are several small parts: a clear plastic fuel filter with an orange internal mesh, a metal bolt, a brass jet, and a grey washer. A long, flexible red hose is coiled around the carburetor. To the right of the carburetor is a set of five thin metal rods with circular handles, likely for cleaning or inspection. Below these rods is a black plastic elbow fitting mounted on a red rectangular base. At the bottom center, there are four black metal clamps arranged in two pairs. Finally, a long black rubber hose with a metal clamp at one end lies horizontally across the bottom of the frame.
