

This is a program where kids in school and out of school don't use any electronics for one week. Everyone in your school would participate. This is a way to save the way we think and try something new. My question is should we participate in the national "Shut Down Your Screen Week?" I think it would be a benefit to participate in Shut Down Your Screen Week for many reasons.

Introduction with Thesis/Claim

Firstly, I think we should participate because using too much technology affects the way we think and behave. The article Attached to Technology and Paying a Price, by Matt Richtel, states many scientifically proven facts that using technology too much affects the way we think. If you are juggling e-mail, phone calls and other incoming information it can interfere with people's focus. Also, the text states, "The stimulation provokes excitement that researchers say can be addictive. In it's absence, people feel bored." This means that people can become addicted and when not using technology become bored with things they used to love to do.

Supports the claim with logical reasoning and relevant evidence, including direct quotations, from accurate, credible sources, thereby demonstrating understanding of the topic

Another reason I think we should participate in this program is because using technology while doing something else (multitasking) really just creates more trouble focusing. Scientists did an experiment where they took someone who multitasks, they did a worse job than the person who didn't. Therefore technology and multitasking do nothing to benefit you in the work place or school setting.

When transitional words do it a create a connection

Additionally, I believe we should participate in this program because it puts technology negatively effects children. Some people may say that playing a video game or watching a movie with your family helps to bond the family. That may be true, but you can bond in other ways as well. The article, Is TV Addictive?, states, "Lily, a second grader, is allowed only an hour a day of unstructured time, which she often spends with her devices." This is an example of how children are playing on devices instead of spending their unstructured time outside or with friends.

A descriptive essay explaining claims and then counters with logical reasoning and relevant evidence

I strongly urge the school administration to make the decision to participate in "Shut Down Your Screen" week. It can break students from their multitasking habit by assisting students in focusing on one activity at a time. It can also help families to bond using healthy strategies such as playing cards or cooking together.
