INSTRUCTIONS AND INFORMATION*Read the following instructions carefully before answering the questions.

1. This is a formal SBA task and must be done under supervised conditions in the classroom.
2. Each learner completes this task on his/her own (under test conditions).
3. Present the answers according to the instructions of each question.
4. Draw all diagrams in pencil and labels in blue ink.
5. The diagrams in the question paper may NOT be drawn to scale.

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The biosphere is the thin layer of land, air and water around the earth's surface that supports life. The abiotic, or non-living, portion of each ecosystem in the biosphere includes the flow of energy, nutrients, water, and gases and the concentrations of organic and inorganic substances in the environment. The biotic, or living, portion includes organisms based on their methods of acquiring energy: the primary producers, largely green plants; the consumers, which include all the animals; and the decomposers, which include the microorganisms that break down the remains of plants and animals into simpler components for recycling in the biosphere.

Ecological pyramids are a graphical representation in the shape of a pyramid to show the feeding relationship of groups of organisms, and the flow of energy or biomass through the different trophic levels in a given ecosystem.

QUESTION 1: Abiotic factors

wide range of sustainable design strategies which designers around the globe are using to create efficient and aesthetically pleasing buildings from waste streams and discarded items Emphasizing performance issues design considerations and process constraints it describes numerous fully realized projects and explores theoretical applications still on the drawing board There is a growing awareness worldwide of the need for cyclical systems of materials reuse Pioneering efforts at closed loop design date as far back as 1960s but only recently have architects and designers begun to focus on the opportunities which discarded materials can provide for creating high performance structures A source of insight and fresh ideas for architects engineers and designers Resource Salvation Reviews the theory and practice of building material and waste reuse and describes best practices in that area worldwide Describes projects that use closed loop thinking to influence and inspire the design of components interiors whole buildings or urban landscapes Illustrates how using discarded materials and focusing on closed loops can lead to new concepts in architecture building science and urban design Demonstrates how designers have developed aesthetically compelling solutions to the demands of rigorous performance standards Resource Salvation is a source of information and inspiration for architects civil engineers green building professionals building materials suppliers landscape designers urban designers and government policymakers It is certain to become required reading in university courses in sustainable architecture as well as materials engineering and environmental engineering curricula with a sustainable design component

Leave no child behind UNESCO,2022-06-20 To leave no child behind UNESCO developed the first global report of this scope on boys disengagement from education bringing together qualitative and quantitative evidence from over 140 countries This report provides an overview on the global situation on boys disengagement from and disadvantage in education It identifies factors influencing boys participation progression and learning outcomes in education It also analyses responses by governments and partners and examines promising policies and programmes Finally it includes recommendations on how to engage boys with education and address disadvantage While girls continue to face severe disadvantages and inequalities in education the report shows that boys in many countries are at greater risk than girls of repeating grades failing to complete different education levels and having poorer learning outcomes in school No less than 132 million boys of primary and secondary school age are out of school They urgently require support As this report shows supporting boys does not mean that girls lose out and vice versa Addressing boys disengagement not only benefits boys learning employment opportunities income and well being it is also highly beneficial for achieving gender equality and desirable economic social and health outcomes

Promoting Equity in Schools Jess Harris, Suzanne Carrington, Mel Ainscow,2017-09-08 Around the world countries are searching for ways of making their schools more effective for all children and young people This book offers a new way of thinking about how to address this challenge It sees improvement as requiring a collective effort that involves contributions from all members of a school community Crucial to this is the idea of ethical leadership Promoting Equity in Schools is written by a team of academic researchers who had a most unusual opportunity to work with a network of schools over three years experimenting to find more effective ways of including hard to reach learners Bringing together practitioner knowledge and ideas from research carried out from a variety of perspectives the authors provide rich accounts of what happened when the schools attempted to become more inclusive and fairer In so doing they throw light on the challenges this presents for school leaders The accounts presented in the book are located in Queensland Australia where the school system faces significant difficulties in relation to equity that resonate with similar difficulties around the world These difficulties relate to policies that emphasize high stakes testing and school choice which tend to promote increased segregation to the particular disadvantage of young people from low income and minority backgrounds The arguments presented suggest that even where worrying policies are in place with leadership driven by a commitment to equity schools can still find space to develop more equitable ways of working

Curriculum and the Life Erratic Leslie B. Nissen, 2013-10-30 Curriculum and the Life Erratic The Geographic Cure lays bare the untold damage done to children who are forced to endure the toxic combination of fermented parenting as author Leslie Nissen has termed it and frequent family moves at the hands of alcoholic parents who perpetually seek the elusive Geographic Cure While such parents deceive themselves that in the next new place sobriety will prevail their children know better Alcoholics who chronically uproot their families for a fresh start usually carry along every reason to drink For the school age children of such cure seeking alcoholics the torment of life with a volatile unpredictable and chronically intoxicated parent is intensified by the anguish of being the new kid who changes schools at the whim of the parent Highly mobile children bearing an alarmingly long list of prior schools may be part of a group which Nissen calls Geographic Cure Children whose chances of finding help are nearly non existent despite their acute need for care The dilemma of this unique subset of Children of Alcoholics is examined via autobiographical psychoanalytic and fictional lenses Nissen also recounts her own urge to hit the road when diagnosed with cancer and explores the Geographic Cure writ large observing how the current testing frenzy and clamor for cures for low test scores dominate educational policy Could teachers panic about accountability cause them to resent new students who appear at their classroom doors mid year Is education encumbered because at the hands of policy makers educators are working the Life Erratic

Assessing Academic Literacy in a Multilingual Society Albert

Weideman, John Read, Theo du Plessis, 2020-11-02 South African universities face major challenges in meeting the needs of their students in the area of academic language and literacy The dominant medium of instruction in the universities is English and to a much lesser extent Afrikaans but only a minority of the national population are native speakers of these languages Nine other languages can be media of instruction in schools which makes the transition to tertiary education difficult enough in itself for students from these schools The focus of this book is on procedures for assessing the academic language and literacy levels and needs of students not in order to exclude students from higher education but rather to identify those who would benefit from further development of their ability in order to undertake their degree studies successfully The volume also aims to bring the innovative solutions designed by South African educators to a wider international audience
