McNett,1984 Possibility of the Aesthetic Experience M.M. Mitias,2012-12-06 The majority of aestheticians have focused their attention during the past three decades on the identity or essential nature of art can art be defined What makes an object a work of art Under what conditions can we characterize in a classificatory sense an object as an art work The debate and at times controversy over these questions proved to be constructive intellectually stimulating and in many cases suggestive of new ideas I hope this debate continues in its momentum and creative outcome The time is however ripe to direct our attention to another important yet neglected concept viz aesthetic experience which occupies a prominent place in the philosophy of art We do not only create art we also enjoy i e experience and evaluate it How can we theorize about the nature of art in general and the art work in particular and about what makes an object a good work of art if we do not experience it For example how can we identify an object as an art work and distinguish it from other types of objects unless we first perceive it that is in a critical educated manner Again how can we judge a work as good elegant melodramatic or beautiful unless we first perceive it and recognize its artistic aspect It seems to me that experiencing art works is a necessary condition for any reasonable theory on the nature of art and artistic criticism

Improving Student Learning One Teacher at a Time Jane E. Pollock, Laura J. Tolone, 2020-12-16 In this second edition of Improving Student Learning One Teacher at a Time Jane E Pollock and Laura J Tolone combine updated research and real world stories to demonstrate how it takes only one teacher to make a difference in student performance Their approach expands the classic three part curriculum instruction assessment framework by adding one key ingredient feedback This Big Four approach offers an easy to follow process that helps teachers build better curriculum documents with Curriculum standards that are clear and well paced and describe what students will learn Instruction based in research from daily lessons to whole units of study Assessment that maximizes feedback and requires critical and creative thinking Feedback that tracks and reports individual student progress by standards Pollock and Tolone demonstrate how consistent timely feedback from multiple sources can help students monitor their own understanding and help teachers align assignments quizzes and tests more explicitly to the standards The Big Four shifts the focus away from the basics of what makes a good teacher toward what makes good learning happen for every student every day
