Agents of Innovation John Trost

Kuehn, 2008-11-01 Agents of Innovation examines the influence of the General Board of the Navy as agents of innovation during the period between World Wars I and II. The General Board, a formal body established by the Secretary of the Navy to advise him on both strategic matters with respect to the fleet, served as the organizational nexus for the interaction between fleet design and the naval limitations imposed on the Navy by treaty during the period. Particularly important was the General Board's role in implementing the Washington Naval Treaty that limited naval armaments after 1922. The General Board orchestrated the efforts by the principal Naval Bureaus, the Naval War College, and the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations in ensuring that the designs adopted for the warships built and modified during the period of the Washington and London Naval Treaties both met treaty requirements while attempting to meet strategic needs. The leadership of the Navy at large and the General Board in particular felt themselves especially constrained by Article XIX, the fortification clause of the Washington Naval Treaty, that implemented a status quo on naval fortifications in the Western Pacific. The treaty system led the Navy to design a measurably different fleet than it might otherwise have in the absence of naval limitations. Despite these limitations, the fleet that fought the Japanese to a standstill in 1942 was predominately composed of ships and concepts developed and fostered by the General Board prior to the outbreak of war.

Industrial Ventilation Design Guidebook

Howard D. Goodfellow, Esko Tahti, 2001-04-17 The Industrial Ventilation Design Guidebook addresses the design of air technology systems for the control of contaminants in industrial workplaces such as factories and manufacturing plants. It covers the basic theories and science behind the technical solutions for industrial air technology and includes publication of new fundamental research and design equations contributed by more than 40 engineers and scientists from over 18 countries. Readers are presented with scientific research and data for improving the indoor air quality in the workplace and reducing emissions to the outside environment. The Guidebook represents for the first time a single source of all current scientific information available on the subject of industrial ventilation and the more general area of industrial air technology. New Russian data is included that fills several gaps in the scientific literature. Presents technology for energy optimization and environmental benefits. A collaborated effort from more than 60 ventilation experts throughout 18 countries. Based on more than 50 million dollars of research and development focused on industrial ventilation. Includes significant scientific contributions from leading ventilation experts in Russia. Presents new innovations including a rigorous design methodology and target levels. Contains extensive sections on design with modeling techniques. Content is well organized and easily adaptable to computer applications.
