

Global warming is a hot topic. There is strong consensus that the world is getting warmer. At the time of writing, the warmest seven years ever have all been since 2015, with 2016, 2019, and 2020 constituting the top three (source: World Meteorological Organization).

Although the warming trend is well documented, there is considerable debate about the cause. Could it be part of a natural cycle? Or, is it due to human activity? Scientists, environmentalists, and policymakers who believe that human activity is the cause of global warming point to the reduction of carbon emissions as part of the solution.

- 37. Use the Internet to learn more about global warming and get some different perspectives on the issue. Visit at least one website for each of the following categories: government agency, environmental advocacy organization, large manufacturer, and energy company. In a short report, summarize what you find and offer an opinion about what should be done to combat global warming.

- 38. Use the Internet to identify actions and strategies that businesses, governments, and individuals could adopt to limit carbon emissions. Report your findings in a table.

- 39. Choose three actions or strategies that could help reduce carbon emissions and write a short explanation of how they might impact business practices.

Interactions and Connections

- 40. Interview someone in your community who owns a business or works for a large company or organization. Obtain information about actions that need to be considered when hiring people, designing products, and making other business decisions. Ask them how ethics might affect their daily lives and the lives of others.

- 41. Based on their answers and what you have learned in this chapter, create a short code of ethics that might be used to guide the decisions made by managers and employees in a company.
