End-of-Course (EOC) Assessments
Standard Setting Questions and Answers

STAAR EOC performance standards: What are performance standards and when will they go into effect?

1. What are academic performance standards?

Academic performance standards represent the degree to which students are learning the content and skills required to be taught, as demonstrated by performance on a test. On the STAAR EOC assessments, there are three levels that describe student performance:

- Level III: Advanced Academic Performance
- Level II: Satisfactory Academic Performance
- Level I: Unsatisfactory Academic Performance

The academic performance standards are the cut scores on a test that divide students into these three levels. A student is considered to have passed a given STAAR EOC assessment if he/she earned a score at least as high as the cut score for Level II: Satisfactory Academic Performance. The policy definitions for each performance level are described in more detail at <http://www.test.state.tx.us/WorkArea/DownloadAsset.aspx?id=2247436&01>.

2. When do the STAAR EOC performance standards go into effect?

Performance standards will be in place for students taking STAAR EOC assessments in spring 2012. A phase-in period will be implemented to provide school districts with time to improve instruction, provide new professional development, increase teacher effectiveness, and close knowledge gaps. A four-year, two-step phase-in for Level II will be in place for all STAAR EOC assessments. In addition, STAAR Algebra II, English III reading, and English III writing will have a two-year, one-step phase-in for Level III.

The STAAR EOC phase-in periods for performance standards will be on a student-by-student basis by content area. If students take their first STAAR EOC assessment in 2012 or 2013, they will be held to the first set of Level II phase-in performance standards for every assessment in that content area. If students take their first STAAR EOC assessment in 2014 or 2015, they will be held to the second set of Level II phase-in performance standards. Students who take their first STAAR mathematics EOC assessment in 2012 or 2013 will be held to the phase-in performance standard for Level III on the Algebra II assessment. Likewise, students who take their first STAAR English EOC assessment in 2012 or 2013 will be held to the phase-in performance standards for Level III on the English III reading and English III writing assessments. Students who take their first STAAR mathematics EOC assessment in 2014 or after will be held to the recommended Level III performance standard on the Algebra II assessment, and students who take their first STAAR English EOC assessment in 2014 or after will be held to the recommended Level III performance standards on the English III reading and English III writing assessments. The chart at <http://www.test.state.tx.us/WorkArea/DownloadAsset.aspx?id=2247506&02> shows a typical STAAR EOC first-taking sequence for five cohorts of students under the first phase-in, second phase-in, and recommended standards for Level II as well as for the phase-in and recommended standards for Level III.
