

Activity 2: Search for Mammal Adaptations to Drought and Heat

Activity Objectives

Students will identify biological structures and adaptations for desert mammals based on environmental conditions in a habitat, and predict behavioral responses to environmental changes. Students will understand that animals have evolved over time through natural selection and genetic drift to survive in their environment. \(See Learning Objectives for more information.\)

Notes: Students may find it difficult to identify the adaptations of desert mammals. The teacher should provide a list of adaptations and ask students to identify the adaptations of desert mammals.

- Note that adaptations are not permanent and can change over time.
- Note that adaptations are not always beneficial to the organism. Adaptations can be harmful to the organism if the environment changes. Adaptations can be harmful to the organism if the environment changes.
