2010 November French Ib Paper 1:

China-India Economics Amitendu Palit, 2017-07-05 A review of the existing literature on the China India comparative theme conveys the distinct impression that the literature largely projects China and India as intrinsically competitive entities While much has been written on where and why China and India are contesting particularly from a political sense very little attention has been devoted to mutual collaboration whether existing or potential Such possibilities are at their greatest in economics which will dominate the future China India relationship This book explores Sino Indian ties from a comparative economic perspective and argues that it is erroneous to visualise the ties either from exclusively competitive or collaborative perspectives The future relationship between the two countries will be characterised simultaneously by two C s competition and collaboration which are both linked to common challenges facing them Arguing that while competition in the economic sphere is inevitable given their size and aspirations the book contends that negative externalities from competition will encourage both countries to collaborate and expand the scope of such collaboration The book s refreshing angle makes it a must read for those interested in Sino Indian relationship

The Role of Renewable Energy Technology in Holistic Community Development Alexander Zahnd, 2014-01-25 This thesis documents almost twenty years of the author's work on the development and implementation of a new approach to holistic community development in remote and disadvantaged villages in Nepal It describes the theoretical basis of the work the main research activities and the practical outcomes of the implemented programs One of the fundamental cornerstones of holistic community development is the provision of appropriate and sustainable solutions for the long term development of local communities This requires that people's own identified needs be recognized and addressed in partnership with them in holistic ways The author explains the many synergies that result from this holistic approach to community development Another cornerstone of his approach is to utilise the communities locally available renewable resources for long term sustainable development One of the key findings of the thesis is that improved access to energy services such as cooking with a smokeless metal stove in a clean indoor environment basic indoor lighting and increased food production and safe food storage through a greenhouse and a solar drier respectively need to be at the very heart of any long term holistic community development project The thesis demonstrates that tapping into locally available renewable energy resources and converting them through contextualized and locally manufactured renewable energy technologies has a central role in long term holistic community development programs Such programs are successful because they provide both appropriate technologies and life changing experiences for the local users involved

Globalization and Labour in the Twenty-First Century Verity Burgmann, 2016-04-14 The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www> tandfebooks.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 3.0 license

Globalization has adversely affected working class organization and mobilization increasing inequality by redistribution upwards from labour to capital. However, workers around the world are challenging their increased exploitation by globalizing corporations. In developed countries, many unions are transforming themselves to confront employer power in ways more appropriate to contemporary circumstances; in developing countries, militant new labour movements are emerging. Drawing upon insights in anti-determinist Marxian perspectives, Verity Burgmann shows how working class resistance is not futile as protagonists of globalization often claim. She identifies eight characteristics of globalization harmful to workers and describes and analyses how they have responded collectively to these problems since 1990 and especially this century. With case studies from around the world including Greece since 2008, she pays particular attention to new types of labour movement organization and mobilization that are not simply defensive reactions but are offensive and innovative responses that compel corporations or political institutions to change. Aging and less agile manifestations of the labour movement decline while new expressions of working class organization and mobilization arise to better battle with corporate globalization. This book will be of interest to students and scholars of labour studies, globalization, political economy, Marxism, and sociology of work.

Cities Interrupted Shirley Jordan, Christoph Lindner, 2016-02-25

Cities Interrupted explores the potential of visual culture in the form of photography, film, performance, architecture, urban design, and mixed media to strategically interrupt processes of globalization in contemporary urban spaces. Looking at cities such as Amsterdam, Beijing, Doha, London, New York, and Paris, the book brings together original essays to reveal how the concept of interruption in global cities enables new understanding of the forms of space, experience, and community that are emerging in today's rapidly transforming urban environments. The idea of interruption addressed in this book refers to deliberate interventions in the spaces and communities of contemporary cities, interventions that seek to disrupt or destabilize the experience of everyday urban life through creative practice. Interruption is used as an analytic and conceptual tool to challenge and explore alternatives to the narratives of speed, hyper-mobility, rapid growth, and incessant exchange and flow that have dominated critical thinking on global cities. Bringing art and creative practice into the centre of discussions about the future of cities alongside discussions of development, design, justice, health, sustainability, technology, and citizenship, this book is essential reading for anyone working at the intersections of a range of urban, cultural, and visual fields including urban studies, urban design, and architecture, visual studies, cultural studies, media studies, art history, and social and cultural geography.
