Congress. House. Committee on Education and Labor,1972 Allocating Federal Funds for State Programs for English Language Learners National Research Council,Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education,Board on Testing and Assessment,Committee on National Statistics,Panel to Review Alternative Data Sources for the Limited-English Proficiency Allocation Formula Under Title III, Part A, Elementary and Secondary Education Act,2011-07-20 As the United States continues to be a nation of immigrants and their children the nation s school systems face increased enrollments of students whose primary language is not English With the 2001 reauthorization of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act ESEA in the No Child Left Behind Act NCLB the allocation of federal funds for programs to assist these students to be proficient in English became formula based 80 percent on the basis of the population of children with limited English proficiency¹ and 20 percent on the basis of the population of recently immigrated children and youth Title III of NCLB directs the U S Department of Education to allocate funds on the basis of the more accurate of two allowable data sources the number of students reported to the federal government by each state education agency or data from the American Community Survey ACS The department determined that the ACS estimates are more accurate and since 2005 those data have been basis for the federal distribution of Title III funds Subsequently analyses of the two data sources have raised concerns about that decision especially because the two allowable

data sources would allocate quite different amounts to the states. In addition, while shortcomings were noted in the data provided by the states, the ACS estimates were shown to fluctuate between years, causing concern among the states about the unpredictability and unevenness of program funding. In this context, the U.S. Department of Education commissioned the National Research Council to address the accuracy of the estimates from the two data sources and the factors that influence the estimates. The resulting book also considers means of increasing the accuracy of the data sources or alternative data sources that could be used for allocation purposes.

Handbook of Research on Schools, Schooling and Human Development Judith L. Meece, Jacquelynne S. Eccles, 2010-06-10

Children spend more time in school than in any social institution outside the home. And schools probably exert more influence on children's development and life chances than any environment beyond the home and neighbourhood. The purpose of this book is to document some important ways schools influence children's development and to describe various models and methods for studying schooling effects. Key features include:

- Comprehensive Coverage: this is the first book to provide a comprehensive review of what is known about schools as a context for human development. Topical coverage ranges from theoretical foundations to investigative methodologies and from classroom level influences such as teacher-student relations to broader influences such as school organization and educational policies.
- Cross-Disciplinary: this volume brings together the divergent perspectives, methods, and findings of scholars from a variety of disciplines, among them educational psychology, developmental psychology, school psychology, social psychology, psychiatry, sociology, and educational policy.

Chapter Structure to ensure continuity: chapter authors describe

1. how schooling influences are conceptualized
2. identify their theoretical and methodological approaches
3. discuss the strengths and weaknesses of existing research
4. highlight implications for future research practice and policy

Methodologies: chapters included in the text feature various methodologies including longitudinal studies, hierarchical linear models, experimental and quasi-experimental designs, and mixed methods.
