

12 Round 49.67 to the nearest ten.

- What are some different ways 49.67 could be decomposed using place value disks.
- Now show the decomposition that you think will be most helpful in rounding to the nearest ten.
- Below is a few ways to think of it.

4 tens	9 ones	6 tenths	7 hundredths
	49 ones	6 tenths	7 hundredths
		496 tenths	7 hundredths

- Which one of these is the most helpful and why?
- Draw and label a number line and circle the rounded value. Explain your reasoning.
- Discuss as a whole group and then repeat for rounding to the nearest ones and tenths.

9 7 Concept Development:

Food Product Development Richard Earle, Allan Anderson, 2001-10-09 Product development from refining an established product range to developing completely new products is the lifeblood of the food industry. It is however a process fraught with risk often ending in failure. What are the keys to making the process a success? Based on a wealth of experience gathered over 40 years Food Product Development provides the answers. After an introductory chapter the first half of the book considers the four core elements of product development: the overall business strategy which directs product development; the various steps in the product development process itself; the knowledge required to fuel the process; and last but not least keeping product development focused on consumer needs and aspirations. The second part of the book looks at managing the product development process in practice with four case studies of successful product launches. It also discusses how to evaluate and improve the process to make future product innovation more successful. Filled with examples and practical suggestions and written by a distinguished team with unrivalled academic and industry expertise Food Product Development will be an essential guide for R D and product development staff and all managers concerned with this key issue throughout the food industry. Mary D Earle and Richard L Earle are both Professors Emeritus in Massey University New Zealand. Mary Earle is a pioneer in product development research and both she and her husband have worked with industry on numerous product development projects. Allan M Anderson is Chief Executive of the New Zealand Dairy Research Institute, the central R D organisation for the New Zealand dairy industry and has extensive experience of managing successful product development projects.

Early Category and Concept Development David H. Rakison, Lisa M. Oakes, 2008-12-30 Whether or not infants' earliest perception of the world is a blooming, buzzing confusion, it is not long before they come to perceive structure and order among the objects and events around them. At the core of this process and cognitive development in general is the ability to categorize, to group events, objects or properties together and to form mental representations or concepts that encapsulate the commonalities and structure of these categories. Categorization is the primary means of coding experience underlying not only perceptual and reasoning processes but also inductive inference and language. The aim of this book is to bring together the most recent findings and theories about the origins and early development of categorization and conceptual abilities. Despite recent advances in our understanding of this area, a number of hotly debated issues remain at the center of the controversy over categorization. Researchers continue to ask questions such as: Which mechanisms for categorization are available at birth and which emerge later? What are the relative roles of perceptual similarity and nonobservable properties in early classification? What is the role of contextual variation in categorization by infants and children? Do different experimental procedures reveal the same kind of knowledge? Can computational models simulate infant and child categorization? How do computational models inform behavioral research? What is the impact of language on category development? How does language partition the world? This book is the first to address these and other key questions within a single volume The authors present a diverse set of views representing cutting edge empirical and theoretical advances in the field The result is a thorough review of empirical contributions to the literature and a wealth of fresh theoretical perspectives on early categorization Concept Development and the Development of Word Meaning T. B. Seiler, W. Wannenmacher, 2012-12-06 This volume owes its existence to many different sources and influences It is based on a meeting that took place from April 30 to May 2 1982 at the University of Technology in Darmstadt The idea for that meeting came while we were elaborating a research program on concept development and the development of word meaning we were inspired by Werner Deutsch of the Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics in Nijmegen The Netherlands and by the Volkswagen Foundation in Hannover Federal Republic of Germany to organize an international conference on the same topic We set out to invite a long list of colleagues and we only regret that not all of them were able to attend This volume should not be viewed as the proceedings of that conference On the one hand it does not include all of the papers presented there and on the other hand some of our colleagues who were unable to attend were nevertheless willing to write contributions Furthermore some who did present papers at the conference revised and reformulated them or even submitted completely new ones for this book We feel however that in the end we have arranged a valuable collection of work in the theory and research of a field that has occupied not only psychologists and linguists but also philosophers anthropologists and many others for a long time Concept-Driven Development and the Organization of the Process of Change Bjørn Gustavsen, Bernd Hofmaier, Marianne Ekman Philips, Anders Wikman, 1996-10-03 The Swedish Working Life Fund a temporary organization functioning from 1990 to 1995 distributed 10 billion Swedish crowns for workplace development and initiated 25 000 projects About half of the total labor market was affected This evaluation study which is built on case studies as well as a survey of a representative sample of the project population describes the emergent characteristics of organization development in Swedish enterprises and services In order to locate the efforts of the Fund within an explanatory context the study draws on the idea of concept driven change of participation in development processes of development coalitions of infrastructure for change and of a society that is supportive of change

Concept Research in Food Product Design and Development Howard R. Moskowitz, Sebastiano Porretta, Matthias Silcher, 2008-02-28 Concepts are critical for the development and marketing of products and services They constitute the blueprint for these products and services albeit at the level of consumers rather than at the technical level A good product concept can help make the product a success by guiding developers and advertising in the right direction Yet there is a dearth of both practical and scientific information about how to create and evaluate concepts There has been little or no focus on establishing knowledge bases for concepts Concept development is too often relegated to the so called fuzzy front end Concept Research in Food Product Design and Development remedies this inattention to product concepts by providing a unique treatment of concepts for the business professional as well as for research scientists The book begins with simple principles of concepts moves forward to methods for testing concepts and then on to more substantive areas such as establishing validity testing internationally and with children creating databases and selling in new methods for concept testing The book combines a how to business book with a detailed treatment of the different facets of concept research As such the book represents a unique contribution to business applications in food and consumer research methods The book is positioned specifically for foods to maintain a focus on a coherent set of topics Concept Research in Food Product Design and Development appeals to a wide variety of audiences R D marketing sensory analysts and universities alike Corporate R D professionals will learn how to create strong concepts Marketers will recognize how concepts are at the heart of their business Sensory analysts will find the book a natural extension of their interest in product features University students will understand how concept research is a critical part of the consumer connection Concept Research in Food Product Design and Development is the definitive innovative text in describing how to create analyze and capitalize upon new product concepts Sensory and Consumer Research in Food Product Design and Development Howard R. Moskowitz, Jacqueline H.

Beckley, Anna V. A. Resurreccion, 2012-04-03 During the past thirty years companies have recognized the consumer as the key driver for business and product success This recognition has in turn generated its own drivers sensory analysis and marketing research leading first to a culture promoting the expert and then evolving into the systematic acquisition of consumer relevant information to build businesses Sensory and Consumer Research in Food Product Design and Development is the first book to present from the business viewpoint the critical issues faced by business leaders from both the research development and business development perspective This popular volume now in an updated and expanded second edition presents a unique perspective afforded by the author team of Moskowitz Beckley and Resurreccion three leading practitioners in the field who each possess both academic and business acumen Newcomers to the field will be introduced to systematic experimentation at the very early stages to newly emerging methods for data acquisition knowledge development and to points of view employed by successful food and beverage companies The advanced reader will find new ideas backed up by illustrative case histories to provide another perspective on commonly encountered problems and their practical solutions This book is aimed at professionals in all sectors of the food and beverage industry Sensory and Consumer Research in Food Product Design and Development is especially important for those business and research professionals involved in the early stages of product development where business opportunity is often the greatest Product Development Christopher A. Mattson, Carl D. Sorensen, 2019-11-30 This book explores the evolution of products from the beginning idea through mass production Rather than prescribing a one size fits all process the authors explain the theory behind product development and challenge readers to develop their own customized development process uniquely suited for their individual situation In addition to theory the book provides development case studies exercises and self evaluation criteria at the end of each chapter and a product development reference that introduces a wide variety of design tools and methods Class tested for three consecutive years by hundreds of students in four different courses the book is an ideal text for senior design classes in mechanical engineering and related disciplines as well as a reference for practicing engineers

Development in Tribal India Shri Kamal Sharma,1989 It is a treatise of the consequential problems of interactions between population resources and development Resources play such a vital role in our economy that the evaluation of territorial distribution of resource complexes and their potentialities for a balanced and integrated development cannot be disassociated from the wider field of planning for regional development But the degree of exploitation of development potentials depends heavily upon human socio political and economic technological factors and variation in these attributes of man causes variation in resource evaluation and their utilization In the present politico economic structure those people who are conscious to their rights and those areas which are dominated by such people get benefits of developmental efforts The tribal people and areas dominated by them could not exert decisive influence on decision making of resource utilization and development planning Consequently all transportable resources are exported out of such regions Handbook for

Evaluating Knowledge-Based Systems Leonard Adelman,Sharon L. Riedel,2012-12-06 Knowledge based systems are increasingly found in a wide variety of settings and this handbook has been written to meet a specific need in their widening use While there have been many successful applications of knowledge based systems some applications have failed because they never received the corrective feedback that evaluation provides for keeping development focused on the users needs in their actual working environment This handbook provides a conceptual framework and compendium of methods for performing evaluations of knowledge based systems during their development Its focus is on the users and subject matter experts evaluation of the usefulness of the system and not on the developers testing of the adequacy of the programming code The handbook permits evaluators to systematically answer the following kinds of questions Does the knowledge based system meet the users task requirements Is the system easy to use Is the knowledge base logically consistent Does it meet the required level of expertise Does the system improve performance The authors have produced a handbook that will serve two audiences a tool that can be used to create knowledge based systems practitioners developers and evaluators and a framework that will stimulate more research in the area academic researchers and students To accomplish this the handbook is built around a conceptual framework that integrates the different types of evaluations into the system of development process The kinds of questions that can be answered and the methods available for answering them will change throughout the system development life cycle And throughout this process one needs to know what can be done and what can t It is this
