promoted home ownership through flexible strategies of design planning financing and construction which the author describes as a new and entrepreneurial vernacular

The Making of the Modern British Home explores the impact of the modern suburban semi detached house on British family life during the 1920s and 1930s focusing primarily on working class households who moved from cramped inner urban accommodation to new suburban council or owner occupied housing estates Migration to suburbia is shown to have initiated a dramatic transformation in lifestyles from a traditional working class mode of living based around long established tightly knit urban communities to a recognisably modern mode centred around the home the nuclear family and building a better future for the next generation This process had far reaching impacts on family life entailing a change in household priorities to meet the higher costs of suburban living which in turn impacted on many aspects of household behaviour including family size This volume also constitutes a general history of the development of both owner occupied and municipal suburban housing estates in interwar Britain including the evolution of housing policy the housing development process housing and estate design lay outs and architectural features marketing owner occupation and consumer durables to a mass market furnishing the new suburban home making ends meet suburban gardens social filtering and conflict on the new estates and problems of mis selling and Jerry building Peter Scott integrates the social history of the interwar suburbs with their economic business marketing and architectural planning histories demonstrating how these elements interacted to produce a new model of working class lifestyles and respectability which marked a fundamental break with pre 1914 working class urban communities

The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,2009

From Catharine Beecher to Martha Stewart Sarah A. Leavitt,2003-04-03 Today s domestic advice writers women such as Martha Stewart Cheryl Mendelson and B Smith are part of a long tradition notes Sarah Leavitt Their success rests on a legacy of literature that has focused on the home as an expression of ideals Here Leavitt crafts a fascinating genealogy of domestic advice based on her readings of hundreds of manuals spanning 150 years of history Over the years domestic advisors have educated women about everything from modernism and morality to sanitation and design Their writings helped create the idealized vision of home held by so many Americans Leavitt says Investigating cultural themes in domestic advice written since the mid nineteenth century she demonstrates that these works which found meaning in kitchen counters parlor rugs and bric a brac have held the interest of readers despite vast changes in women s roles and opportunities Domestic advice manuals have always been the stuff of fantasy argues Leavitt demonstrating cultural ideals rather than cultural realities But these rich sources reveal how women understood the connection between their homes and the larger world At its most fundamental level the true domestic fantasy was that women held the power to reform their society through first reforming their homes

Cancer on Trial Peter Keating, Alberto Cambrosio, 2014-04-18 There were no medical oncologists until a few decades ago In the early 1960s not only were there no such specialists many practitioners regarded the treatment of terminally ill cancer patients with heroic courses of chemotherapy as highly questionable Physicians loath to assign patients randomly to competing treatments also expressed their outright opposition to the randomized clinical trials that were then relatively rare And yet today these trials form the basis of medical oncology How did such a spectacular change occur How did medical oncology move from a non entity and in some regards a reviled practice to the central position it now occupies in modern medicine Cancer on Trial answers these questions by exploring how practitioners established a new style of practice at the center of which lies the cancer clinical trial
