African American Urban History since World War II Kenneth L. Kusmer, Joe W. Trotter, 2009-07-15 Historians have devoted surprisingly little attention to African American urban history of the postwar period especially compared with earlier decades Correcting this imbalance African American Urban History since World War II features an exciting mix of seasoned scholars and fresh new voices whose combined efforts provide the first comprehensive assessment of this important subject The first of this volume's five groundbreaking sections focuses on black migration and Latino immigration examining tensions and alliances that emerged between African Americans and other groups Exploring the challenges of residential segregation and deindustrialization later sections tackle such topics as the real estate industry's discriminatory practices the movement of middle class blacks to the suburbs and the influence of black urban activists on national employment and social welfare policies Another group of contributors examines these themes through the lens of gender chronicling deindustrialization's disproportionate impact on women and women's leading roles in movements for social change Concluding with a set of essays on black culture and consumption this volume fully realizes its goal of linking local transformations with the national and global processes that affect urban class and race relations

River Jordan Joe William Trotter, 1998-03-19 Since the nineteenth century the Ohio River has represented a great divide for African Americans It provided a passage to freedom along the underground railroad and during the industrial age it was a boundary between the Jim Crow South and the urban North The Ohio became known as the River Jordan symbolizing the path to the promised land In the urban centers of Pittsburgh Cincinnati Louisville and Evansville blacks faced racial hostility from outside their immediate neighborhoods as well as class color and cultural fragmentation among themselves Yet despite these pressures African Americans were able to create vibrant new communities as former agricultural workers transformed themselves into a new urban working class Unlike most studies of black urban life Trotter's work considers several cities and compares their economic conditions demographic makeup and political and cultural conditions Beginning with the arrival of the first blacks in the Ohio Valley Trotter traces the development of African American urban centers through the civil rights movement and the developments of recent years

Black Migration and the American City National Museum of American History (U.S.), Spencer R. Crew, James Oliver Horton, 1988

Black Movement Jeffrey O. G. Ogbar, 2025-04-14 The Great Migration of African Americans from the South to northern and western cities between 1915 and 1970 fundamentally altered the political, social, and cultural landscapes of major urban centers like New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, and Detroit and changed the country as well. By the late twentieth century, Black people were mayors, police chiefs, and school superintendents, often at parity and sometimes overrepresented in municipal jobs in these and other cities, which were also hubs for Black literature, music, film, and politics. Since the 1970s, migration patterns have significantly shifted away from the major sites of the Great Migration, where some iconic Black communities have been replaced by mostly non-Black residents. Although many books have examined Black urban experiences in America, this is the first written by historians focusing on the post-Great Migration era. It is centered on numerous facets of Black life, including popular culture, policing, suburbanization and political organizing across multiple cities In this landmark volume Jeffrey O G Ogbar and his contributors explore the last half century of African American urban history covering a landscape transformed since the end of the Great Migration and demonstrating how cities remain dynamic into the twenty first century Contributors are Stefan M Bradley Scot Brown Tatiana M F Cruz Tom Adam Davies LaShawn Harris Maurice J Hobson Shannon King Melanie D Newport Jeffrey O G Ogbar Brian Purnell J T Roane Chanelle Rose Benjamin H Saracco and Fiona Vernal Social Work Practice with African Americans in Urban Environments Rhonda Wells-Wilbon, Anna R.
