Kidney Transplantation, Bioengineering, and Regeneration Giuseppe Orlando, Giuseppe Remuzzi, David F. Williams, 2017-06-08
Kidney Transplantation Bioengineering and Regeneration Kidney Transplantation in the Regenerative Medicine Era investigates how the field of regenerative medicine is changing the traditional premises of solid organ transplantation specifically within the field of kidney transplantation. In Section I, chapters illustrate the state of the art in kidney transplantation as well as the research behind the bioengineering and regeneration of kidney organoids for therapeutic renal replacement. In Section II, chapters catalog the technologies that are being developed and the methods that are being implemented to bioengineer or regenerate kidneys in order to restore function while critically highlighting those technological advances which hold the most promise. The book thus encompasses clinical renal transplantation, tissue engineering, biomaterial sciences, stem cell biology, and developmental biology as they are all applied to the kidney. Focuses on the synergy between renal organ transplantation and regenerative medicine, highlighting the advances within transplantation, bioengineering, regeneration, and repair. Educates the transplant community on important regenerative medicine research pertinent to kidney transplantation. Develops a shared language for clinicians, surgeons, and basic researchers to reach across the fields of transplantation and regenerative medicine and facilitate more productive investigation and research. Catalogs the technologies being developed and methods being implemented to bioengineer or regenerate kidneys to restore function.

New Advances in Kidney Transplantation Eytan Mor, 2022-12-12
This Special Issue in renal transplantation covers a variety of clinical and research areas in kidney transplantation. The recent decade is associated with an ongoing shortage of organs for transplantation with efforts to increase the organ pool with DCDs and extended criteria donors. However, with the increasing success rate of kidney transplants, there is also a growth in the candidate list because of removal of the age barrier and transplantation of high-risk patients with other comorbidities. The future seems promising with the development of innovative, non-invasive technologies, introducing biomarkers for diagnosis of rejection and ischemic reperfusion injury, use of cell therapy for tolerance induction, development of artificial organs, and overcoming immune and non-immune barriers in xenotransplantation. This Special Issue will touch some of these topics that are in the frontiers of the modern era of kidney transplantation.
