

INTRODUCTION

This repair manual is intended to ensure that the maintenance and repair work required for BMW cars is done in the correct manner. Therefore this manual should be used by inspectors and fitters as it helps to supplement the practical and theoretical knowledge they have acquired at our service training school.

The relevant specifications are always provided at the beginning of each main group.

The specifications apply to standard cars that have not been involved in an accident and have not been modified after leaving the factory.

Basically speaking, the Touring models are identical with the saloons so that in the specifications and values quoted reference is only made to points in which the Touring models differ from the other cars.

The group system applied in this manual is taken from our flat rate catalogue.

For example, page 32-21/6 means:

32	main group
-21	sub group
/6	page in sub-group

The special tools required for good repair work are listed in our special tool catalogue — order No. 01 00 0 000 430. Photographs have been provided to show how the special tools must be applied for the individual processes and operations.

Removal/disassembly is always described for each operation. If fitting/assembly is not possible in the opposite order a "note when fitting" is provided.

The following supplements are both alterations and additions. If the word "alteration" has been printed on the sheet, take out the sheet already provided and insert the new one in its place. Sheets marked "addition" must simply be added to the existing manual without removing any old sheets.

On the following page a list should be provided of the supplements inserted in the repair manual.

Apart from the improvements announced by regular circular notes, we recommend that the spare parts catalogues — which have clear illustrations — are used as an additional source of information.
