Introduction	Sentence 1	Hook - One sentence designed to grab your reader's attention (quote, question, thought-provoking statement, anecdote, interesting fact, etc).
	Sentence 2-3	Background Information - Connect your general hook to your specific topic. What basic information should your reader know about your topic in order to understand your essay?
	Sentence 4-5	Thesis - One to two sentences identifying your topic, claim, and specific arguments you intend to make.
Body #1 through Body #3	Sentence 1	Topic Sentence : One sentence identifying what your paragraph is going to be about. This sentence should use transitions such as, first, second, third, last, also, additionally, etc.
	Sentence 2-6	Details : Use these sentences to prove your point using specific details from the text. The more specific you can make it, the better. Use quotes, page numbers or examples from text.
	Sentences 7-8	Paragraph Summary/Transition - Briefly wrap up your paragraph by putting your final thoughts on the topic at hand. Basically in your own words, what overall idea or statement do the details you supplied create? How might this topic lead into the next idea?

	Sentence 2-3	Recap Specific Ideas : Use these sentences to summarize your main points from your body paragraphs. Never word your points the exact same way. Add variety by restating the ideas using new words. At no point should you introduce new ideas in your conclusion.
	Sentence 4-5	Lasting Impression - One to two sentences leaving your reader with a memorable idea, thought or call to action. It is clear from these sentences that your essay is done.

But have you ever actually seen five paragraph essays outside of school walls? Have you ever found it in business writing, journalism, nonfiction, or any other genres that exist in the real world? Kimberly Hill Campbell and Kristi Latimer reviewed the research on the effectiveness of the form as a teaching tool and discovered that the research does not support the five paragraph formula. In fact, research shows that the formula restricts creativity, emphasizes structure rather than content, does not improve standardized test scores, inadequately prepares students for college writing, and results in vapid writing. In Beyond the Five Paragraph Essay, Kimberly and Kristi show you how to reclaim the literary essay and create a program that encourages thoughtful writing in response to literature. They provide numerous strategies that stimulate student thinking, value unique insight, and encourage lively personal writing, including the following: Close reading, which is the basis for writing about literature; Low stakes writing options that support students thinking as they read; Collaboration in support of discussion, debate, and organizational structures that support writing as exploration; A focus on students writing process as foundational to content development and structure; The use of model texts to write in the form of the literature students are reading and analyzing. The goal of reading and writing about literature is to push and challenge our students thinking. We want students to know that their writing can convey something important, a unique view to share, defend, prove, delight.
