Quantitative Tourism Research in Asia Sajad Rezaei, 2018-12-14 The purpose of this book is twofold First this book is an attempt to map the state of quantitative research in Asian tourism and hospitality context and provide a detailed description of the design implementation application and challenges of quantitative methods in tourism in Asia Second this book aims to contribute to the tourism literature by discussing the past current and future quantitative data analysis methods The book offers new insights into well established research techniques such as regression analysis but goes beyond first generation data analysis techniques to introduce methods seldom if ever used in tourism and hospitality research In addition to investigating existing and novel research techniques the book suggests areas for future studies In order to achieve its objectives the analysis is split into three main sections understanding the tourism industry in Asia the current status of quantitative data analysis and future directions for Asian tourism research

Selling British Columbia Michael Dawson, 2007-10-01 Selling British Columbia is an entertaining examination of the development of the tourist industry in British Columbia between 1890 and 1970 Michael Dawson argues that in order to understand the roots of the fully fledged consumer culture that emerged in Canada after the Second World War it is necessary to understand the connections between the 1930s 1940s and the postwar era Cultural producers such as tourism promoters and the state infrastructure played important roles in fostering consumer demand particularly during the Depression the Second World War and throughout the postwar era Dawson draws upon promotional pamphlets newspapers advertisements and films as well as archival sources regarding government civic and international tourism organizations Central to his book is an examination of the representation of popular imagery and of how aboriginal and British cultures were commodified and marketed to potential tourists He also looks at the gendered aspect of these promotional campaigns particularly during the 1940s and challenges earlier interpretations regarding the relationship between tourism and nature in Canada Historians have tended to focus on either the first wave of consumerism from the 1880s to the 1920s or else on the era of economic expansion that followed World War Two As Dawson shows the 1930-45 period in particular was an important and dynamic one in the creation of Canadian and British Columbian consumer culture Michael Dawson's highly readable and engaging account of the development of the British Columbia tourist industry will be welcomed by British Columbian and Canadian historians as well as other scholars of tourism and consumerism
