

NEUWS VAN DE DAG

Trump laat niet met zichzelf en de VS alleen en creëert daarmee een moeilijke onderhandelingspositie

Arbeidsdilemma

Een van de grootste dilemma's van de Nederlandse regering is de balans tussen de behoeften van de werkgevers en de behoeften van de werknemers. De regering moet ervoor zorgen dat de arbeidsmarkt flexibel genoeg is om te kunnen inspelen op de veranderende behoeften van de economie, maar ook dat de werknemers voldoende bescherming krijgen tegen onrechtvaardige behandelingswijzen. Dit is een moeilijke balans, maar het is de enige manier om de Nederlandse economie te laten groeien en de werkgelegenheid te behouden.

Title Announcement Bulletin, 1957 The Building of Civil Europe 1951-1972 Stefanie Pukallus, 2018-11-27 This book argues that early European Commission officials envisaged an integrated civil Europe from the outset Largely overlooked is the fact that between 1951 and 1972 there was a group of European Commission and before that the High Authority officials who wished to build a Civil Europe to sit alongside an economic and political Europe This Civil Europe was it was hoped to become home to a European citizenry equipped with a European civil consciousness that complemented their national and local loyalties To this end these officials pioneered a series of civil initiatives designed to begin the process of building Civil Europe This book analyses three such civil initiatives the building of the first European School the European Community's participation in Expo 58 and the production of the European Community's own documentaries From the start Europe was designed and conceived of in terms of a European general civil public and not solely in terms dictated by economic and political interests Bailey's index to 'The Times'. Nancy Bailey, 1901 Imperial History and the Global Politics of Exclusion Amanda Behm, 2017-10-24 Examining the rise of the field of imperial history in Britain and wider webs of advocacy this book demonstrates how intellectuals and politicians promoted settler colonialism excluded the subject empire and laid a precarious framework for decolonization History was politics in late nineteenth century Britain But the means by which influential thinkers sought to steer democracy and state development also consigned vast populations to the margins of imperial debate and policy From the 1880s onward politicians intellectuals and journalists erected a school of thought based on exclusion and deferral that segregated past and future backwardness and civilization validating racial discrimination in empire all while disavowing racism These efforts however engendered powerful anticolonial backlash and cast a long shadow over the closing decades of imperial rule Bringing to life the forgotten struggles which have in effect defined our times Imperial History and the Global Politics of Exclusion is an important reinterpretation of the intellectual history of the British Empire Palmers' Index to the Times Newspaper, 1901 Britain's Levantine Empire, 1914-1923 Daniel-Joseph MacArthur-Seal, 2021 Britain's Levantine Empire 1914 1923 tells a unique history of the impact of British soldiers and government policy on the Eastern Mediterranean during the First World War and its aftermath

Radcliffe-Brown Isak Niehaus, 2024-11-01 Alfred Radcliffe Brown 1881 1995 is widely renowned as a founder of modern social anthropology This biography challenges popular stereotypes of him as a misplaced positivist and colonial conservative It shows Radcliffe Brown to be a thoroughly cosmopolitan scholar a committed fieldworker and a sharp critic of colonialism Radcliffe Brown engaged strategically with colonial authorities to further the interests of his discipline and invoked scientific credentials to critique central aspects of colonial rule His struggle for intellectual autonomy and advocacy of a comparative sociological approach speaks to many contemporary concerns Antisemitism and Islamophobia in Europe James Renton, Ben Gidley, 2017-04-05 This is the first book to examine the relationship between European antisemitism and

Islamophobia from the Crusades until the twenty first century in the principal flashpoints of the two racisms With case studies ranging from the Balkans to the UK the contributors take the debate away from politicised polemics about whether or not Muslims are the new Jews Much previous scholarship and public discussion has focused on comparing European ideas about Jews and Judaism in the past with contemporary attitudes towards Muslims and Islam This volume rejects this approach Instead it interrogates how the dynamic relationship between antisemitism and Islamophobia has evolved over time and space The result is the uncovering of a previously unknown story in which European ideas about Jews and Muslims were indeed connected but were also ripped apart Religion empire nation building and war all played their part in the complex evolution of this relationship As well as a study of prejudice this book also opens up a new area of inquiry how Muslims Jews and others have responded to these historically connected racisms The volume brings together leading scholars in the emerging field of antisemitism Islamophobia studies who work in a diverse range of disciplines anthropology history sociology critical theory and literature Together they help us to understand a Europe in which Jews and Arabs were once called Semites and today are widely thought to be on two different sides of the War on Terror

Africa as a Living Laboratory Helen Tilley, 2011-04-15 Tropical Africa was one of the last regions of the world to experience formal European colonialism a process that coincided with the advent of a range of new scientific specialties and research methods Africa as a Living Laboratory is a far reaching study of the thorny relationship between imperialism and the role of scientific expertise environmental medical racial and anthropological in the colonization of British Africa A key source for Helen Tilley's analysis is the African Research Survey a project undertaken in the 1930s to explore how modern science was being applied to African problems This project both embraced and recommended an interdisciplinary approach to research on Africa that Tilley argues underscored the heterogeneity of African environments and the interrelations among the problems being studied While the aim of British colonialists was unquestionably to transform and modernize Africa their efforts Tilley contends were often unexpectedly subverted by scientific concerns with the local and vernacular Meticulously researched and gracefully argued Africa as a Living Laboratory transforms our understanding of imperial history colonial development and the role science played in both

The Emergence of Geoengineering Ina Möller, 2023-02-09 For many years suggestions to geoengineer the climate occupied a marginal role in climate change science and politics Today visions of massive carbon drawdown and sunlight reflection have become reasonable additions to conventional mitigation and adaptation Why did researchers start engaging with ideas that were for a long time considered highly controversial And how did some of these ideas come to be perceived worthy of research funding and in need of international governance This Element provides an analysis of the recent history and evolution of geoengineering as a governance object It explains how geoengineering evolved from a thought shared by a small network into a governance object that is likely to shape the future of climate politics In the process it generates a theory on the earliest phase of the policy cycle and sheds light on the question

A Comparative Political Ecology of Exurbia Laura E. Taylor, Patrick T. Hurley, 2016-05-26 This book is about politics and planning outside of cities where urban political economy and planning theories do not account for the resilience of places that are no longer rural and where local communities work hard to keep from ever becoming urban By examining exurbia as a type of place that is no longer simply rural or only tied to the economies of global resources e.g. mining forestry and agriculture we explore how changing landscapes are planned and designed not to be urban that is to look function and feel different from cities and suburbs in spite of new home development and real estate speculation The book's authors contend that exurbia is defined by the persistence of rural economies the conservation of rural character and protection of natural ecological systems all of which are critical components of the contentious local politics that seek to limit growth Comparative political ecology is used as an organizing concept throughout the book to describe the nature of exurban areas in the U.S. and Australia although exurbs are common to many countries The essays each describe distinctive case studies with each chapter using the key concepts of competing rural capitalisms and uneven environmental management to describe the politics of exurban change This systematic analysis makes the processes of exurban change easier to see and understand Based on these case studies seven characteristics of exurban places are identified rural character access local economic change ideologies of nature changes in land management coalition building and land use planning This book will be of interest to those who study planning conservation and land development issues especially in areas of high natural amenity or environmental value There is no political ecology book quite like this neither one solely focused on cases from the developed world in this case the United States and Australia nor one that specifically harnesses different case studies from multiple areas to develop a central organizing perspective of landscape change Lawful Conquest? Constanze Weiske, 2021-10-04

The global expansion of European colonization is commonly perceived as lawful according to the valid European colonial law of the time This book is substantially challenging this belief by uncovering its legal justifications based on discovery and terra nullius as retrospectively created legal fictions and demonstrating its untenability in practice Focused on the critical reconstruction of Spanish and Dutch colonization practices in northeastern South America Trinidad and Tobago between 1498 and 1817 the book offers an illuminating view on the European shadow of the colonial past in the Americas Based on the application of an innovative comparative spatio legal Global History approach to 1 770 excavated European colonial written sources from archives of both sides of the Atlantic in comparison to the colonial legal provisions of Europe s most influential legal writers the book moreover provides a substantial argument to the contemporary Caribbean European reparation debate in favor of the return of Indigenous Peoples historical territories Therefore the book calls for the extension of the traditional territory approach to reparations of the United Nations Declaration of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples UNDRIPs and the Inter American Court of Human Rights IACHR
