15 Defence Application Training:

Military Training in the British Army, 1940-1944 Dr Timothy Harrison Place, Timothy Harrison Place, 2016-01-20 In this study the author traces the reasons for the British Army's tactical weakness in Normandy to flaws in its training in Britain. The armour suffered from failures of experience. Disagreements between General Montgomery and the War Office exacerbated matters.

Selected Articles on Military Training in Schools and Colleges, 1917 Training to Fly - Military Flight Training 1907-1945 Cameron, Rebecca Hancock, 2018-09-30 Air Force book is an institutional history of flight training by the predecessor organizations of the United States Air Force. The U S Army purchased its first airplane built and successfully flown by Orville and Wilbur Wright in 1909 and placed both lighter and heavier than air aeronautics in the Division of Military Aeronautics of the Signal Corps. As pilots and observers in the Air Service of the American Expeditionary Forces, Americans flew combat missions in France during the Great War. In the first postwar decade, airmen achieved a measure of recognition with the establishment of the Air Corps, and during World War II the Army Air Forces attained equal status with the Army Ground Forces. During this first era of military aviation as described by Rebecca Cameron in Training to Fly, the groundwork was laid for the independent United States Air Force. Those were Air University Library Index to Military Periodicals.

Virtual Reality, Training's Future? Robert J. Seidel, Paul R. Chatelier, 1997-04-30 In 1988 the NATO panel governing human sciences Panel 8 on Defence Application of Human and Bio Medical Sciences established a Research Study Group to synthesize information relevant to Advanced Technologies Applied to Training Design. During its first phase the RSG established an active exchange of information on advanced technologies applied to training design and stimulated much military application of these technologies. With the increased emphasis on training throughout the alliance, Panel 8 during its April 1991 meeting decided to continue with Phase II of this RSG focusing in the area of advanced training technologies that were emerging within the alliance. In order to accomplish its mission the RSG held a series of workshops. Leaders in technology and training were brought together and exchanged information on the latest developments in technologies applicable to training and education. This volume represents the last in a series based on the NATO workshops. In Part One it details findings from the last workshop, Virtual Reality for Training, and in Part Two we provide a summary perspective on Virtual Reality and the other emerging technologies previously studied. These include computer based training, expert systems, authoring systems, cost effectiveness, and distance learning. It is a natural extension to proceed from learning without boundaries to virtual environments. From the extended classroom to the individual or team immersion in a distributed virtual and collaborative environment is an easy conceptual step.

Report Canada. Department of National Defence, 1924 Bulletin Washington State University, 1916 The Army List Great Britain. Army, 1994 Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1972 Fundamental Issues in Defense Training and Simulation George Galanis, Robert Sottolare, 2017-05-15

Defense forces have always invested a great deal of their resources in training. In recent times, changes in the complexity and intensity of operations have reaffirmed the importance of ensuring that warfighters are adequately prepared for the environments in which they are required to work. The emergence of new operational drivers such as asymmetric threats, urban operations, joint and coalition operations, and the widespread use of military communications and information technology networks has highlighted the importance of providing warfighters with the competencies required to act in a coordinated, adaptable fashion and to make effective decisions in environments characterized by large amounts of sometimes ambiguous information. While investment in new technologies can make available new opportunities for action, it is only through effective training that personnel can be made ready to apply their tools in the most decisive and discriminating fashion. There are many factors which can have an impact on the efficacy of training and many issues to consider when designing and implementing training strategies. These issues are often complex and nuanced and in order to grasp them fully, a significant investment of time and energy is required. However, the requirement to respond quickly to ever-changing technology, a high operational tempo, and minimal staffing may preclude many in today's defense forces from seeking out all such resources on their own. This edited collection provides brief, easy-to-understand summaries of the key issues in defense training and simulation, as well as guidance for further reading. It consists of a collection of short essays, each of which addresses a fundamental issue in defense training and simulation and features an up-to-date reference list to enable the reader to undertake further investigation of the issues addressed. In essence, this book provides the optimum starting point or first resource for readers to come to terms with the important issues associated with defense training and simulation. The contributions are written by leading scholars from military research institutions in the US, UK, Canada, Australia, and New Zealand, as well as selected researchers from academic and private sector research institutions.
