Revolutionizing World Trade Kati Suominen, 2019-11-19 Almost 15 years ago in The World is Flat Thomas Friedman popularized the latest wave of globalization as a world of giant corporate supply chains that tripled world trade between 1990 and 2010 Major corporations such as Apple Dell and GE offshored manufacturing to low cost economies China became the world's factory mass producing and exporting computers and gadgets to Western shoppers This paradigm of globalization has dominated global trade policy making and guided hundreds of billions of dollars in business investments and development spending for almost three decades But we are now on the cusp of a new era Revolutionizing World Trade argues that technologies such as ecommerce 3D printing 5G the Cloud blockchain and artificial intelligence are revolutionizing the economics of trade and global production empowering businesses of all sizes to make move and market products and services worldwide and with greater ease than ever before The twin forces of digitization and trade are changing the patterns players politics and possibilities of world trade and can reinvigorate global productivity growth However new policy challenges and old regulatory frameworks are stifling the promise of this most dynamic prosperous and inclusive wave of globalization yet This book uses new empirical evidence and policy experiences to examine the clash between emerging possibilities in world trade and outdated policies and institutions offering several policy recommendations for navigating these obstacles to catalyze growth and development

around the world Financial Inclusion Law and Over-Indebtedness Michelle Kelly-Louw, Duygu Damar-Blanken, 2025-08-08

The book addresses the current challenges faced by financial consumers in the context of enormous technological developments. This edited collection covers safeguarding financial consumers encompassing topics such as financial inclusion, data protection and consumer over indebtedness. Addressing specific issues related to vulnerable consumer groups and the increasing digitisation of financial services, it grapples with the emerging challenge demanding that consumers possess technological literacy. The book offers a distinct new perspective going beyond the traditional understanding of financial inclusion which typically only considers the possession of a bank account. Instead, it explores new dimensions including the obstacles consumers face in obtaining credit, establishing a credit history and coping with issues such as being blacklisted. The book explores diverse strategies for enhancing financial inclusion such as leveraging data and open banking. It also scrutinises the pursuit of credit fairness and examines methods to either mitigate or effectively address over indebtedness, a persistent and formidable challenge for financial consumers. The book will be of interest to researchers, practitioners and governmental organisations in the field of finance law and the law of emerging technologies. Chapter 2 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 International license.

Racism by Another Name Dorothy E. Hines, Mildred Boveda, Endia J. Lindo, 2021-08-01

Racism by Another Name: Black Students Overrepresentation and the Carceral State of Special Education is a thought provoking and timely book that provides a landscape for understanding and challenging educational inequities for Black students who are identified for special education. This book provides a historical and contemporary analysis through the eyes of Black children and their families on how they navigate and push against inequitable schooling. Ways they are reframing discourse about race, disability and gender in schools, how educators, administrators and school counselors contribute to disproportionality in special education and ways that parents are collectively organizing to dismantle injustices and the carceral state or criminalization of special education. Each chapter provides a ground level view of what Black students with disabilities experience in the classroom and examines how the intersection of race, disability and gender subject Black students to dehumanizing experiences in school. This book includes qualitative and quantitative approaches to exploring the material realities of Black students who are isolated, whether in separate or general education classrooms. Drawing from Critical Race Theory, DisCrit, Critical Race Feminism and other race centered frameworks, this book challenges dominant norms of schools that reinforce inequality and racial segregation in special education. At the end of each chapter, the authors present practitioner based notes and resources for readers to expand their knowledge of how Black students, their family and guardians advocate for themselves and their own children. This book will leave educational advocates for Black children with a clearer understanding of the obstacles and successes that they encounter when striving for a just and equitable education. Furthermore, the book challenges readers to be active agents of change in their own schools and communities Cradle to Kindergarten Ajay Chaudry, Taryn Morrissey, Christina Weiland, Hirokazu Yoshikawa, 2017-03-01 Early care and education for many children in the United States is in crisis The period between birth and kindergarten is a critical time for child development and socioeconomic disparities that begin early in children's lives contribute to starkly different long term outcomes for adults Yet compared to other advanced economies high quality child care and preschool in the United States are scarce and prohibitively expensive for many middle class and most disadvantaged families To what extent can early life interventions provide these children with the opportunities that their affluent peers enjoy and contribute to reduced social inequality in the long term Cradle to Kindergarten offers a comprehensive evidence based strategy that diagnoses the obstacles to accessible early education and charts a path to opportunity for all children The U S government invests less in children under the age of five than do most other developed nations Most working families must seek private childcare which means that children from low income households who would benefit most from high quality early education are the least likely to attend them Existing policies such as pre kindergarten in some states are only partial solutions To address these deficiencies the authors propose to overhaul the early care system beginning with a federal paid parental leave policy that provides both mothers and fathers with time and financial support after the birth of a child They also advocate increased public benefits including an expansion of the child care tax credit and a new child care assurance program that subsidizes the cost of early care for low and moderate income families They also propose that universal high quality early education in the states should start by age three and a reform of the Head Start program that would include more intensive services for families living in areas of concentrated poverty and experiencing multiple adversities from the earliest point in these most disadvantaged children's lives They conclude with an implementation plan and contend that these reforms are attainable within a ten year timeline Reducing educational and economic inequalities requires that all children have robust opportunities to learn fully develop their capacities and have a fair shot at success Cradle to Kindergarten presents a blueprint for fulfilling this promise by expanding access to educational and financial resources at a critical stage of child development Handbook of Competence and Motivation, Second Edition
