Stanley, PhD,2019-09-24 I don't think I've ever read a book that paints such a complex and accurate landscape of what it is like to live with the legacy of trauma as this book does while offering a comprehensive approach to healing from the foreword by Bessel van der Kolk A pioneering researcher gives us a new understanding of stress and trauma as well as the tools to heal and thrive Stress is our internal response to an experience that our brain perceives as threatening or challenging Trauma is our response to an experience in which we feel powerless or lacking agency Until now researchers have treated these conditions as different but they actually lie along a continuum Dr Elizabeth Stanley explains the significance of this continuum how it affects our resilience in the face of challenge and why an event that's stressful for one person can be traumatizing for another This groundbreaking book examines the cultural norms that impede resilience in America especially our collective tendency to disconnect stress from its potentially extreme consequences and override our need to recover It explains the science of how to direct our attention to perform under stress and recover from trauma With training we can access agency even in extreme stress environments In fact any maladaptive behavior or response conditioned through stress or trauma can with intentionality and understanding be reconditioned and healed The key is to use strategies that access not just the thinking brain but also the survival brain By directing our attention in particular ways we can widen the window within which our thinking brain and survival brain work together cooperatively When we use awareness to regulate our biology this way we can access our best uniquely human qualities our compassion courage curiosity creativity and connection with others By building our resilience we can train ourselves to make wise decisions and access choice even during times of incredible stress uncertainty and change With stories from men and women Dr Stanley has trained in settings as varied as military bases healthcare facilities and Capitol Hill as well as her own striking experiences with stress and trauma she gives readers hands on strategies they can use themselves whether they want to perform under pressure or heal from traumatic experience while at the same time pointing our understanding in a new direction

The long and short of mental time travel--self-projection over time-scales large and small James M. Broadway, Claire M. Zedelius, Jonathan W. Schooler, Simon Grondin, 2015-07-02 Researchers working in many fields of psychology and neuroscience are interested in the temporal structure of experience as well as the experience of time at scales of a few milliseconds up to a few seconds as well as days months years and beyond This Research Topic supposes that broadly speaking the field of time psychology can be organized by distinguishing between perceptual and conceptual time scales Dealing with conceptual time mental time travel also called mental simulation self projection episodic semantic memory prospection foresight allows humans and perhaps other animals to imagine and plan events and experiences in their personal futures based in large part on memories of their personal pasts as well as general knowledge Moreover contents of human language and thought are fundamentally organized by a temporal dimension enmeshed with it so thoroughly that it is usually expressible only through spatial metaphors But what might such notions have to do with experienced durations of events lasting milliseconds up to a few seconds during the so called present moment of perception action cycle time This Research Topic is organized around the general premise that by considering how mental time travel might scale down to time perception and vice versa no less progress and integrative synthesis within and across scientific domains might be facilitated Bipolar configurations of future and past orientations of the self may be repeated in parallel across conceptual and perceptual time scales subsumed by a general Janus like feedforward feedback system for goal pursuit As an example it is notable that the duality of prospection and semantic episodic memory operating at conceptual time scales has an analogue in perception action cycle time namely the interplay of anticipatory attention and working memory Authors from all areas of psychology and neuroscience are encouraged to submit articles of any format dependence to asset empowerment The book examines the evidence base supporting Children's Savings Accounts including CSAs demonstrated potential to improve children's outcomes all along the opportunity pipeline early education school achievement college access and completion and post college financial health It then outlines a policy that builds on CSAs to incorporate a sizable progressive wealth transfer This new policy Opportunity Investment Accounts is framed as the cornerstone of the wealth building agenda the nation needs in order to salvage the American Dream Written by leading CSA researchers the book includes overviews of the major children's savings legislation proposed in Congress and the key features of prominent CSA programs in operation around the country today as well as new qualitative and quantitative CSA research The book ultimately presents a critical development of the theories that together explain how universal progressive asset based education financing could make education work equitably for all American children

Securitization of the Umbrella Movement in Hong Kong Cora Y.T. Hui, 2019-07-05 In recent years the city many hoped would help democratize China has instead become a research setting in which to study China's increasing intolerance of dissent Since Hong Kong's return to Chinese sovereignty in 1997 China's treatment of Hong Kong could be divided into three stages non intervention intervention and securitization If the July 1 march in 2003 is a watershed that marked Beijing's change from non intervention to intervention this book suggests that the Umbrella Movement in 2014 is another watershed that marked Beijing's change from intervention to securitization This book is a theoretically driven case study of the Umbrella Movement a massive sit in that paralyzed key business and retail districts for 79 days in Hong Kong in 2014 Many Hongkongers believe that they have the right to a fair election of the chief executive and Beijing's insistence on vetting candidates prompted the outbreak of the Umbrella Movement Drawing insights from the securitization theory and fear appeal literature the book proposes the framework of security appeal It argues that the outbreak of the Umbrella Movement resulted from a premature use of hard repression that is before the government convinced the general public that the Umbrella Movement was a threat The eventual successful securitization entails a general acceptance of the threatening nature of the Umbrella Movement and agreement with its crackdown This book concludes that one of the consequences of the securitization of the Umbrella Movement is Beijing's eventual switch to the policy of patriotocracy a system that allocates power and resources based on one's professed patriotism in lieu of One Country Two Systems The policy implications and theoretical and methodological contributions of this book will be of interest to scholars and students of security studies Chinese politics and various social science disciplines including political science psychology criminology and sociology
