Ross, Debra Knopman, Forrest E. Morgan, Sebastian Joon Bae, M. Scott Bond, John S. Crown, Elaine Simmons, 2020-03-13 As the United States creates the Space Force as a service within the Department of the Air Force RAND assessed which units to bring into the Space Force analyzed career field sustainability and drew lessons from other defense organizations The report focuses on implications for effectiveness efficiency independence and sense of identity for the new service Digest of Waterfowl Hunting Regulations Illinois. Department of Natural Resources,2017 Calling the Shots Daniel P. Gitterman,2017-02-14 Modern presidents are CEOs with broad powers over the federal government The United States Constitution lays out three hypothetically equal branches of government the executive the legislative and the judicial but over the years the president as head of the executive branch has emerged as the usually dominant political and administrative force at the federal level In fact Daniel Gitterman tells us the president is effectively the CEO of an enormous federal bureaucracy Using the unique legal authority delegated by thousands of laws the ability to issue executive orders and the capacity to shape how federal agencies write and enforce rules the president calls the shots as to how the government is run on a daily basis Modern presidents have for example used the power of the purchaser to require federal contractors to pay a minimum wage and to prohibit contracting with companies and contractors that knowingly employ unauthorized alien workers Presidents and their staffs use specific tools including executive orders and memoranda to agency heads as instruments of control and influence over the government and the private sector For more than a century they have used these tools without violating the separation of powers Calling the Shots demonstrates how each of these executive powers is a powerful weapon of coercion and redistribution in the president s political and policymaking arsenal Energy Justice and Energy Law Iñigo del Guayo, Lee Godden, Donald D. Zillman, Milton Fernando Montoya, José Juan González, 2020-05-21 Energy justice has emerged over the last decade as a matter of vital concern in energy law which can be seen in the attention directed to energy poverty and the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals There are energy justice concerns in areas of law as diverse as human rights consumer protection international law and trade and in many forms of regional and national energy law and regulation This edited collection explores in detail at four kinds of energy justice The first distributive justice relates to the equitable distribution of the benefits and burdens of energy activities which is challenged by the existence of people suffering from energy poverty Secondly procedural or participation justice consists of the right of all communities to participate in decision making regarding energy projects and policies that affect them This dimension of energy justice often includes procedural rights to information and access to courts Under the concept of reparation or restorative justice the book looks at even handed enforcement of energy statutes and regulations as well as access to remedies when legal rights are violated Finally the collection addresses social justice with the recognition that energy injustice cannot be separated from other social ills such as poverty and subordination based on race gender or indigeneity These issues feed into a wider conversation about how we achieve a just energy transition as the world confronts the urgent challenges of climate change Environmental Policy and Public Health Barry L. Johnson, Maureen Y. Lichtveld, 2017-10-24 As with the first edition this second edition describes how environmental health policies are developed the statutes and other policies that have evolved to address public health concerns associated with specific environmental hazards and the public health foundations of the policies It lays out policies for what is considered the major environmental physical hazards to human health Specifically the authors describe hazards from air water food hazardous substances and wastes To this list the authors have added the additional concerns from climate change tobacco products genetically modified organisms environment related diseases energy production biodiversity and species endangerment and the built environment And as with the first edition histories of policymaking for specific environmental hazards are portrayed This edition differs from its antecedent in three significant themes Global perspectives are added to chapters that describe specific environmental hazards e g air pollution policies in China and India Also there is the material on the consequences of environmental hazards on both human and ecosystem health Additionally readers are provided with information about interventions that policymakers and individuals can consider in mitigating or preventing specific environmental hazards Adapted Physical Education and Sport Joseph P.
