Citizen, Territory and Technologies: Smart Learning Contexts and Practices Óscar Mealha, Monica Divitini, Matthias Rehm, 2017-06-21 This book gathers a selection of the articles accepted for presentation and discussion at the 2nd International Conference on Smart Learning Ecosystems and Regional Developments SLERD 2017 held 22-23 June. What characterizes smart learning ecosystems? What is their role in city and regional development and innovation? How can we promote the engagement of citizens in smart learning ecosystems? These are some of the questions addressed at SLERD 2017 and documented here. The proceedings include scientific papers that endeavor to understand, devise and promote innovative human-centric design and development methods, education training practices, informal social learning and citizen-driven policies. The individual papers elaborate on the notion of smart learning ecosystems, study the relation of smart learning ecosystems with ICT and economic development and deployment strategies alongside new policies for smarter proactive citizens, making them a valuable resource for researchers and policymakers alike.

Educational Leadership in Becoming Nuraan Davids, Yusef Waghid, 2016-08-25 Educational Leadership in Becoming reconsiders educational leadership in its current forms and presents a more plausible form of educational leadership to contend with the complexities currently found in universities and schools. Much of the literature in vogue concerning educational leadership ranges from transactional to transformative representations of the concept in relation to educational management and policy, curriculum inquiry and pedagogical action. The primary aim of this book is to revisit some of the dominant understandings of educational leadership and to offer an extended view of the practice along the lines of potentiality and becoming. Davids and Waghid argue that all current forms of educational leadership are insufficient to enact responsible human action, particularly when it comes to addressing the combined issues of globalisation and equitable redress and transformation, whether in relation to leading schools or universities. The primary objective of the book is to draw on the Agambian notion of becoming in order to show that an educational leadership in becoming is better placed to not only address the myriad challenges besetting education but to also enhance the potential of leadership in action. The book addresses an international audience by analysing conceptions of transformative leadership and should be read by anyone who is interested in education and educational leadership as well as the impact of neoliberal agendas on education and society. It should also appeal to those interested in the philosophy of education.

Sociology in South Africa R. Sooryamoorthy, 2016-08-13 This book is the first comprehensive account of the history and current state of South African sociology. Providing a holistic picture of the subject both as it is taught in universities and as a field of research, it reveals the trajectories of a discipline in a challenging socio-political context. With the support of historical and scientometric data, it demonstrates how the changing political situation from colonialism to apartheid to democracy has influenced the nature, direction and foci of sociological research in the country. The author shows how during the apartheid era sociology was professionally fragmented and divided along language and race lines It was however able to flourish with the advent of democracy in 1994 and has become a unique academic movement This insightful work will appeal to students and scholars of the social sciences and all those interested in the history and society of South Africa Livelihood and Landscape Change in Africa: Future Trajectories for Improved Well-Being under a Changing Climate Sheona Shackleton, Paul Hebinck, Chinwe Ifejika Speranza, Vanessa Masterson, Dian Spear, Maria Tengö, 2019-10-08 This book is based on a Special Issue of the journal LAND that draws together a collection of 11 diverse articles at the nexus of climate change landscapes and livelihoods in rural Africa all explore the links between livelihood and landscape change including shifts in farming practices and natural resource use and management The articles which are all place based case studies across nine African countries cover three not necessarily mutually exclusive thematic areas namely smallholder farming livelihoods under new climate risk five articles long term dynamics of livelihoods and landscape change and future trajectories two articles and natural resource management and governance under a changing climate spanning forests woodlands and rangelands four articles The commonalities key messages and research gaps across the 11 articles are presented in a synthesis article All the case studies pointed to the need for an integrated and in depth understanding of the multiple drivers of landscape and livelihood change and how these interact with local histories knowledge systems cultures complexities and lived realities Moreover where there are interventions such as new governance systems REDD or climate smart agriculture it is critical to interrogate what is required to ensure a fair and equitable distribution of emerging benefits

African Political Thought in the Twentieth Century Mbukeni Herbert Mnguni, 2015 This book is purposely and deliberately entitled New African Intellectuals and New African Political Thought in the Twentieth Century. It encapsulates the recent debate about the political and cultural role played by the New African intellectuals in developing modern African political thought. The authors argue that the New African Intellectuals was a culturally and politically dominant movement of the twentieth century despite the fact that it was suppressed and oppressed by white colonialism and racism. It was a political and cultural expression of the oppressed and disposed people. During its cultural and political splay, the New African Intellectuals was preoccupied with three inseparable historical issues forming the concept of the New African: constructing the foundations of African modernity and formulating the principles of African Nationalism. Offering fresh insights that are both empirically and theoretically informed, this book illuminates the processes and consequences of the New African scholars and writers. The political contribution made by the New African intellectuals is traced from its origins in literature, music and language. The discussion concludes with an exploration of the dilemma faced by African languages as they are dominated by European languages. The authors argue that this dominance has resulted in the petrification and mummification of African languages because outstanding even great African writers are not using them in relation to modern technological and linguistic experience. The authors believe that this broad-ranging book will be of interest to all those studying African politics and culture and who are concerned with understanding modern African societies in the light of post colonialism
