

1. Process of creating specific attainable targets for your yourself or individuals
2. Two types of goals are: medium term goals. These take about 2-5 years to complete such as anelisa's dream to go to university and long term goals which take 10 plus years to accomplish and give a vision of your future self such as anelisa's ambition to touch peoples lives
3. Goal setting helps individuals to make attainable action plans to obtain their goal and it helps show individuals any shortcomings or obstacles they must overcome to reach their goal
4. The challenges she faced included: the lack of support from her family in cape town which would have been a obstacle in that it would make it very hard to be motivated I life..... the fact that she had to practically bring herself up which is an obstacle in that there was nobody to advice her on the turmoil's and truths of life andthat she came from a poor background has her hometown khayelisha has a very high crime ratre and it is the fifth largest slum in the world which would have made finding and attending a good school and university very challenging
5. how anelisa personal values contributed to his success included: his humility which allowed him to be chosen for this program by engen as they saw someone willing to change the world.....his ambition which pushed allowed him to reach his goals..... Hard working behavior which lead to his outstanding results at the university of technology in the cape peninsula and his extraordinary motivation which urged him to his goals despite not having support from his parents
 - a) One of the biggest ways in which relationships can negatively impact goal achievement is by serving as a distraction. When we're in a relationship, we tend to spend a lot of time with our partner, which can take away from the time and energy we need to devote to our goals. This distraction can lead to procrastination and a lack of focus, which can ultimately hinder our progress.
 - d) Another way in which relationships can negatively impact goal achievement is by failing to provide the necessary support. When we're in a relationship, we rely on our partner for emotional support, encouragement, and motivation. If our partner is not supportive of our goals, it can be difficult to stay motivated and make progress..
 - b) Negative Influences: Another way in which relationships can impact negatively on the achievement of goals is through negative influences. If our partner has habits or behaviors that are counterproductive to our objectives, we may find ourselves struggling to stay on track. For example, if our partner is unsupportive of our healthy eating or exercise goals, this can make it difficult to maintain a healthy lifestyle.
 - c) Low self-esteem: Finally, relationships can impact negatively on the achievement of goals by undermining our self-esteem and confidence. If our partner is critical or unsupportive, we may begin to doubt ourselves and our ability to succeed. This can create a self-fulfilling prophecy in which we give up on our goals and stop striving for success.

Poverty can make it difficult for individuals to set and achieve goals. Limited economic resources can make it difficult to acquire the resources needed to plan and start important projects, leading to feelings of discouragement, powerlessness, and frustration. With fewer resources available, individuals may have less access to educational and vocational opportunities. Limited transportation options can make it difficult to access resources, while time spent working multiple jobs can further limit time to invest in goal-directed activities. Some individuals may develop an impoverished mindset, where they believe their lack of materials might limit their ability to achieve
