The Impact of Editors on the Publication of Works of Fiction: A Historical Study

Introduction

"There are many examples of those whose own contributions to creative writing have been negligible but whose activities as critics, editors or reviewers have had a formative influence on the literature of a period."

Jefferson 1

While it is the author's name that appears on the front cover and they who receive the credit, praise and criticism for their books, they do not work alone. Since publishing developed into an industry during the nineteenth century (Feather 174), editors have played an important role (Feather 174) as "a shadowy figure behind the scenes" (Forster, cited Jefferson 2), helping to shape manuscripts into the beloved books they become.

Most editors define their role as assisting the writer to produce the very best work possible in order to communicate their intent, and establish and make clear their own voice and craft (Berach et al. 28; Gross iv; Howard 72; Sharpe and Oatley viii; Zaid 132): "Good editors may be likened to those crystal-clear prisms which form a vital part of a pair of binoculars. They are not there to alter the view or change the scene, but to make it clearer and closer" (Fynn, cited J Mackenzie 1). The role is largely an invisible one to those outside the industry, so it is unsurprising that few have questioned the impact editors have on works of fiction.

Chapter 1: Background and Literature Review

1.1 SIGNIFICANCE

Prior to publication of Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone, author Joanne Rowling's publisher, Bloomsbury, advised the use of a pen name to appeal to a broader audience, the argument being that boys were less likely to read a book written by a female (Zaid 173), thus 'J.K. Rowling' was adopted. The Harry Potter series was also translated from British English to American English in preparation for release in the USA, a decision made by an editor at Scholastic, the American publisher of the series (Zaid 261). The series experienced unprecedented success (Grabianowski; "Harry Potter author has deal for new novel - for adults", ProQuest), possibly due in part to these publishing and editorial decisions.

Examples such as this are the catalyst for this research. How much influence do editors and publishers have on the quality and subsequent financial or scholarly success of a fictional work? How much of an influence were these groups and individuals in the past?

1.2 LITERATURE REVIEW

There are few academic studies that explore the impact of the editor on the publication of works of fiction. Various texts discuss the role of the editor at present, but these are mainly 'how to' guides written by editors with the intent of educating others in the field (Commonwealth of Australia, J Mackenzie, Sharpe and Oatley). Sources that focus on the development of the role over time are also rare. The role is relatively easy to define: an editor assists in creating a publishable work with a heightened chance of success by guiding the author in establishing and conveying their own voice and message, and ensuring the content of the work supports its purpose and meets a suitable standard (Berach et al. 28; Commonwealth of Australia 20; Gross iv; J Mackenzie 172; Sharpe and Oatley viii; Zaid 132). Determining the impact however, is more challenging.

Ofsted inspections on Army Apprenticeships conducted in 2013 rated the overall effectiveness as good This was an improvement over the last inspection in 2009 rated as satisfactory now called requires improvement Some 28 per cent of Army recruits were less than 18 years of age Further information is needed on why the Army is so dependent on recruiting personnel under the age of 18 years compared to the other two Services and whether steps are being taken to reduce this dependency Of those recruited in 2012 35 per cent of the Army were rated at entry level 2 for literacy that of a 7 to 8 year old and 39 per cent had a literacy level of an eleven year old If as the MoD states it has to recruit personnel at whatever level of attainment is available then it should boost remedial action when recruitment entry standards are particularly low In light of changes brought about by Future Force 2020 it may be that recruiting personnel with higher levels of attainment would better meet the future needs of the Armed Forces Whilst the Committee recognises that some recruits may not be eager to take further academic exams the MoD should encourage more recruits to undertake English and Maths GCSEs which would stand them in good stead for future employment The MoD has carried out some useful pilot projects with paramedic training and should identify more potential projects to ensure that vital skills paid for by the MoD are not lost to the country
