The SAGE Encyclopedia of Communication Research Methods Mike Allen, 2017-01-15 Communication research is evolving and changing in a world of online journals open access and new ways of obtaining data and conducting experiments via the Internet Although there are generic encyclopedias describing basic social science research methodologies in general until now there has been no comprehensive A to Z reference work exploring methods specific to communication and media studies Our entries authored by key figures in the field focus on special considerations when applied specifically to communication research accompanied by engaging examples from the literature of communication journalism and media studies Entries cover every step of the research process from the creative development of research topics and questions to literature reviews selection of best methods whether quantitative qualitative or mixed for analyzing research results and publishing research findings whether in traditional media or via new media outlets In addition to expected entries covering the basics of theories and methods traditionally used in communication research other entries discuss important trends influencing the future of that research including contemporary practical issues students will face in communication professions the influences of globalization on research use of new recording technologies in fieldwork and the challenges and opportunities related to studying online multi media environments Email texting cellphone video and blogging are shown not only as topics of research but also as means of collecting and analyzing data. Still other entries delve into considerations of accountability, copyright, confidentiality, data ownership, and security, privacy, and other aspects of conducting an ethical research program. Features 652 signed entries are contained in an authoritative work spanning four volumes available in choice of electronic or print formats. Although organized A to Z, front matter includes a Reader's Guide grouping entries thematically to help students interested in a specific aspect of communication research to more easily locate directly related entries. Back matter includes a Chronology of the development of the field of communication research, a Resource Guide to classic books, journals, and associations, a Glossary introducing the terminology of the field, and a detailed Index. Entries conclude with References, Further Readings, and Cross References to related entries to guide students further in their research journeys. The Index, Reader's Guide, themes, and Cross References combine to provide robust search and browse in the e version.

Research and Evaluation in Education and Psychology Donna M. Mertens, 2019-02-04 Updated to align with the American Psychological Association and the National Council of Accreditation of Teacher Education accreditation requirements. Focused on increasing the credibility of research and evaluation, the Fifth Edition of Research and Evaluation in Education and Psychology: Integrating Diversity with Quantitative, Qualitative, and Mixed Methods incorporates the viewpoints of various research paradigms into its descriptions of these methods. Students will learn to identify, evaluate, and practice good research with special emphasis on conducting research in culturally complex communities based on the perspectives of women, LGBTQ communities, ethnic racial minorities, and people with disabilities. In each chapter, Dr. Donna M. Mertens carefully explains a step of the research process from the literature review to analysis and reporting and includes a sample study and abstract to illustrate the concepts discussed. The new edition includes over 30 new research studies and contemporary examples to demonstrate research methods including Black girls and school discipline. The complexities of being overrepresented and understudied.
