American Photography and the American Dream James Guimond, 1991 American Photography and the American Dream

The Photograph and the American Dream, 1840-1940 Stephen White, Andreas Blühm, 2001 Perhaps no nation has been so thoroughly shaped by its dreams as has America and perhaps no other dreams have been captured on camera as often and as diversely as America's The mythic American Dream has been the subject of photographic documentation since the 1840s when photographers first began traveling to the New World in search of subjects From an unknown photographer's picture of newborn George B Billings Rego scion of an immigrant Portuguese family and the first child ever born at Boston Long Wharf to Lewis Hine's wrenching image of a young cotton mill worker in Georgia to Alfred Stieglitz's awesome New York cityscapes the photographs collected here reveal the multiple facets of 100 of the most decisive years of American development Between 1840 and 1940 immigrants became homeowners untouched lands exploded in superhuman industrial growth tourists replaced pioneers and the American metropolis grew taller and shinier and the camera caught it all

American Archives Shawn Michelle Smith,1999-12-19 Visual texts uniquely demonstrate the contested terms of American identity In American Archives Shawn Michelle Smith offers a bold and disturbing account of how photography and the sciences of biological racialism joined forces in the nineteenth century to offer an idea of what Americans look like or should look like Her varied sources which include the middle class portrait baby picture criminal mugshot and eugenicist record as well as literary scientific and popular texts enable her to demonstrate how new visual paradigms posed bodily appearance as an index to interior essence Ultimately we see how competing preoccupations over gender class race and American identity were played out in the making of a wide range of popular and institutional photographs Smith demonstrates that as the body was variously mapped and defined as the key to essentialized identities the image of the white middle class woman was often held up as the most complete American ideal She begins by studying gendered images of middle class domesticity to expose a transformation of feminine architectures of interiority into the essences of blood character and race She reads visual documents as well as literary texts by Nathaniel Hawthorne Pauline Hopkins and Theodore Dreiser as both indices of and forms of resistance to dominant images of gender class race and national identity Through this analysis Smith shows how the white male gaze that sought to define and constrain white women and people of color was contested and transformed over the course of the nineteenth century Smith identifies nineteenth century visual paradigms that continue to shape debates about the terms of American belonging today American Archives contributes significantly to the growing field of American visual cultural studies and it is unprecedented in explaining how practices of racialized looking and the parameters of American looks were established in the first place

The Life and Photography of Doris Ulmann Philip Walker Jacobs,2021-10-21 Doris Ulmann 1882 1934 was one of the foremost photographers of the twentieth century yet until now there has never been a biography of this fascinating gifted artist Born into a New York Jewish family with a tradition of service Ulmann sought to portray and document individuals from various groups that she feared would vanish from American life In the last eighteen years of her life Ulmann created over 10 000 photographs and illustrated five books including Roll Jordan Roll and Handicrafts of the Southern Highlands Inspired by the paintings of the European old masters and by the photographs of Hill and Adamson and Clarence White Ulmann produced unique and substantial portrait studies Working in her Park Avenue studio and traveling throughout the east coast Appalachia and the deep South she carefully studied and photographed the faces of urban intellectuals as well as rural peoples Her subjects included Albert Einstein Robert Frost African American basket weavers from South Carolina and Kentucky mountain musicians Relying on newly discovered letters documents and photographs many published here for the first time Philip Jacobs s richly illustrated biography secures Ulmann s rightful place in the history of American photography
