Islam and the West African Novel Ahmed S. Bangura, 2000 Extending Edward Said's study of the Orientalist tradition in Western scholarship Bangura traces the origins of contemporary misunderstandings of African Islam to the discourse of colonial literature Western critics and writers he observes typically without access to Islam except through the colonialist tradition have perpetuated unfounded politically motivated themes Dictionary of African Biography Emmanuel Kwaku Akyeampong, Professor Henry Louis Gates, Jr., 2012-02-02 From the Pharaohs to Fanon Dictionary of African Biography provides a comprehensive overview of the lives of the men and women who shaped Africa's history Unprecedented in scale DAB covers the whole continent from Tunisia to South Africa from Sierra Leone to Somalia It also encompasses the full scope of history from Queen Hatsheput of Egypt 1490-1468 BC and Hannibal the military commander and strategist of Carthage 243-183 BC to Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana 1909-1972 Miriam Makeba and Nelson Mandela of South Africa 1918 African Philosophies Séverine Kodjo-Grandvaux, 2025-08-19 For many students of philosophy in the West philosophy is understood as a discipline stemming from Ancient Greece embracing the great thinkers of medieval and early modern Europe and continuing through to the present day To the extent that other philosophical traditions are taken into account these tend to be selected philosophical traditions of Asia Rarely is African philosophy considered in this context even though Africa and the West are deeply interconnected through long histories of colonialism and slavery In this important book Séverine Kodjo Grandvaux argues that a serious engagement with African philosophy is long overdue She shows that there is a rich tradition of philosophical thought in Africa that addresses issues ranging from the legacies of colonialism to the nature of time the state responsibility identity dignity and personhood An engagement with African philosophy also offers a fresh perspective on Western philosophy prompting us to interrogate ourselves and our own history Conceptualizing African philosophy becomes a way of conceptualizing the world and of understanding how to know ourselves through the gaze of another African Philosophies is not so much a survey of philosophy in Africa but rather an account of how the question of African philosophy emerged in the second half of the 20th century and of what we can learn from a serious engagement with African philosophy today It will be of great interest to students and scholars in philosophy in colonial and postcolonial studies and throughout the humanities

The Author as Cannibal Felisa Vergara Reynolds, 2022 In the first decades after the end of French rule Francophone authors engaged in an exercise of rewriting narratives from the colonial literary canon In The Author as Cannibal Felisa Vergara Reynolds presents these textual revisions as figurative acts of cannibalism and examines how these literary cannibalizations critique colonialism and its legacy in each author's homeland Reynolds focuses on four representative texts Une tempête 1969 by Aimé Césaire Le temps de Tamango 1981 by Boubacar Boris Diop L'amour la fantasia 1985 by Assia Djebar and La migration des cœurs 1995 by Maryse Condé Though written independently in Africa and the Caribbean these texts all combine critical adaptation with creative destruction in an attempt to eradicate the social political cultural and linguistic remnants of colonization long after independence The Author as Cannibal situates these works within Francophone studies showing that the extent of their postcolonial critique is better understood when they are considered collectively Crucial to the book are two interviews with Maryse Condé which provide great insight on literary cannibalism By foregrounding thematic concerns and writing strategies in these texts Reynolds shows how these rewritings are an underappreciated collective form of protest and resistance for Francophone authors

The Black Renaissance in Francophone African and Caribbean Literatures K. Martial Frindéthié, 2014-12-03 This work explores the limits and prospects of Afro Caribbean Francophone writers in reshaping or producing action oriented literature It shows how Francophone literatures have followed a hegemonic discourse that leaves little room for thinking outside of traditional cultural and ideological conventions Part One explores the origins of Afro Caribbean Francophone literature and what the author terms griotism a shared heritage of awareness of biological differences a sense of the black hero as black messiah and black people as chosen and the promise of a common racial history Part Two discusses the formidable grip of griotism on Fanon Mudimbe the champions of Creolity Bernabé Chamoiseau and Confiant and well read African women writers Aminata Sow Fall and Mariama Ba Part Three seeks to subvert the discourse of griotism in order to propose a new autonomy for Francophone African writers of literary texts from areas as diverse as Europe and North Africa the Caribbean and South Asia regions of the world that seem to have only their language in common But despite enormous differences among all the countries where French is spoken Francophone literatures tend to deal with a similar spread of issues This volume positions the study of the Francophone world and its cultures as a comparative project in which post colonial Francophone cultures and the specific alterity of these cultures emerge as inextricable from and essential to an understanding of modern France The volume is organized by region with an international roster of contributions and includes summaries of selected creative and critical works and a guide to selected terms and figures

Oral Tradition in African Literature Chin Ce, Charles Smith, 2015-09-04 This study of oral tradition in African literature is borne from the awareness that African verbal arts still survive in works of discerning writers and in the conscious exploration of its tropes perspectives philosophy and consciousness its complementary realism and ontology for the delineation of authentic African response to memory history and other possible comparisons with modern existence such as witnessed in recent developments of the African novel In this series we have strived to adopt innovative and multilayered perspectives on orality or indigeneity and its manifestations on contemporary African and new literatures These studies use multi faceted theories of orality which discuss and deconstruct notions of history truth claims and identity making not excluding gender and genealogy cultural and biological studies in African contexts

The Pull of Postcolonial Nationhood Ayo A. Coly, 2010-06-23 While the male dominated Francophone African migrant literary tradition includes women writers there is no study that attends to this subgroup of writers The Pull of Postcolonial Nationhood Gender and Migration in Francophone African Literatures pioneers the study of these writers as a category through an examination of three major women who exemplify the Francophone African female migrant literary tradition Ken Bugul Calixthe Beyala and Fatou Diome By studying these women together Ayo A Coly innovatively introduces gender into prevailing theories of Francophone African migrant literatures These theories in line with the current surge of postnationalism in cultural criticism claim that questions of home and nationhood are obsolete for the present generation of Francophone African migrant writers but this book shows that the opposite is true in the texts of these writers Coly is thus able to demonstrate how claims of postnationalism are often skewed by gender blind understandings of nationalism namely a failure to consider that women have traditionally been the sites for discourses and practices of nationalism Amid the negative currency of home and nation in contemporary cultural criticism including postcolonial criticism this book contends that home remains a politically ideologically and emotionally

Globalizing the Postcolony Claire H. Griffiths, 2010-12-18 Globalizing the Postcolony Contesting Discourses of Gender and Development in Francophone Africa is a study of development in the former French colonies of West Africa It takes as its starting point the international community's reporting on human and social development and gender in the developing areas which began systematically in 1990 and which has provided a framework for policy making in this field International reports suggest that the francophone African countries have been experiencing low levels of social development throughout the past two decades These levels fall dramatically when the factor of gender is introduced to the point where statistically speaking francophone African women have had less access to social development than any other population in the world This study analyzes current thinking on the challenges facing gender and development in Africa before moving on to examine the historical factors marking the gender and development profile of the francophone West African region Through an analysis of gender politics in the region from pre colonial to postcolonial times the book examines the gradual incursion of exogenous gender policies into the region throughout the 20th century The discussion concludes by arguing that despite the tendency of the international community and their colonial administrative forebears to pursue one size fits all solutions to what they identified as the main development challenges of the day the impact of standardized solutions remains subject to the unique historical and cultural context in which they are implemented Adapting formula driven policies to unique cultural contexts constitutes a major challenge for gender and development politics in the second decade of the new century Meanwhile the book coincides with the introduction of a new international development agenda in Africa articulated around issues of security and globalization While civil unrest continues to destabilize vast regions of the continent making the prospe
