Mission to America and Europe Ian Nish,2008-10-23 Driven by the need to identify classify and assess western technology and culture together with a desire to advance a dialogue for reviewing the so called unequal treaties the new Meiji government of 1868 despatched a top level ministerial team to the west which in 1872 arrived in the United States In all they spent 205 days in America 122 days in Britain and two months in France as well as visiting other countries including Belgium Germany Russia Sweden and Italy Drawing on the papers given at the triennial conference of the European Association of Japanese Studies held in Budapest in August 1997 the year also marking the 125th anniversary of Iwakura s arrival this volume presents a valuable new overview of the mission as a whole with the significance and impact of the visit to each country being separately assessed A supplement to the book looks at several post Iwakura topics including a review of the international history of nuclear energy by examining the perspectives of six nuclear power plants host communities in Britain and Germany from the 1950s to the late 1980s Based upon a continuous qualitative analysis of the public debates in these communities this book demonstrates that the societal conflicts about atomic power were never confined to the risks of one exceptional energy technology Instead they were shaped by larger societal issues which they in turn heavily influenced Therefore the local discourses about nuclear energy provide an insight into transformations the British and German societies underwent during the Cold War The book will be of value for scholars and students interested in the history of technology environmental political and contemporary history as well as science and technology studies It will be of interest to researchers and members of the public interested in the local history of Biblis Hinkley Point Lingen Oldbury on Severn Stade and Torness as well as the wider public interested in the ongoing debates about nuclear power as a source of energy and a potential answer to the challenges of climate change Index of Patents Issued from the United States Patent Office
