The Great Reimagining Bree T. Hocking,2015-02-01 While sectarian violence has greatly diminished on the streets of Belfast and Derry proxy battles over the right to define Northern Ireland's identity through its new symbolic landscapes continue Offering a detailed ethnographic account of Northern Ireland's post conflict visual transformation this book examines the official effort to produce new civic images against a backdrop of ongoing political and social struggle Interviews with politicians policymakers community leaders cultural workers and residents shed light on the deeply contested nature of seemingly harmonized urban landscapes in societies undergoing radical structural change Here the public art process serves as a vital means to understanding the wider politics of a transforming public sphere in an age of globalization and transnational connectivity

Michael Young, Social Science, and the British Left, 1945-1970 Lise Butler,2020-09-02 In post war Britain left wing policy maker and sociologist Michael Young played a major role in shaping British intellectual political and cultural life using his study of the social sciences to inform his political thought In the mid twentieth century the social sciences significantly expanded and played a major role in shaping British intellectual political and cultural life Central to this intellectual shift was the left wing policy maker and sociologist Michael

Young As a Labour Party policy maker in the 1940s Young was a key architect of the Party's 1945 election manifesto Let Us Face the Future He became a sociologist in the 1950s publishing a classic study of the East London working class Family and Kinship in East London with Peter Willmott in 1957 which he followed up with a dystopian satire The Rise of the Meritocracy about a future society in which social status was determined entirely by intelligence Young was also a prolific social innovator founding or inspiring dozens of organisations including the Institute of Community Studies the Consumers Association Which magazine the Social Science Research Council and the Open University Moving between politics social science and activism Young believed that disciplines like sociology psychology and anthropology could help policy makers and politicians understand human nature which in turn could help them to build better political and social institutions This book examines the relationship between social science and public policy in left wing politics between the end of the Second World War and the end of the first Wilson government through the figure of Michael Young Drawing on Young's prolific writings and his intellectual and political networks it argues that he and other social scientists and policy makers drew on contemporary ideas from the social sciences to challenge key Labour values like full employment and nationalisation and to argue that the Labour Party should put more emphasis on relationships family and community Showing that the social sciences were embedded in the project of social democratic governance in post war Britain it argues that historians and scholars should take their role in British politics and political thought seriously Sovereignty and the Law Richard Rawlings, Peter Leyland, Alison Young, 2013-11 Grounded firmly in the disciplines of law this collection explores the twin elements of continuity and change in conceptions of sovereignty in recent times The collection as a whole illuminates the enduring strength of sovereignty as a foundational concept and the continuing widespread appeal of sovereignty as an idea

The UK has taken the correct preliminary steps to strengthen the bilateral relationship The UK's support for permanent Brazilian membership of the UN Security Council as part of a wider UN reform is to be particularly welcomed Brazil as a developing democratic country can play a vital role in representing the global South The Government must maintain its efforts in this area As Brazil increasingly accepts the global leadership role that its growing economy will bring it will play a key role in the promotion of UK national interests such as energy security the trade in narcotics and the maintenance of the environment while the commercial opportunity that Brazil represents is a vital plank of the Government's ambition to increase trade overseas The turning away of a Royal Navy vessel is a serious matter The committee regrets that Brazil felt the need to refuse docking permission to HMS Clyde in January this year and further regrets a general hardening of Brazil's position towards the Falklands The committee is pressing for answers from the FCO as to how this situation was allowed to develop
