The Self-Transforming School Brian J. Caldwell, Jim M. Spinks, 2013-07-18 The Self

Transforming School combines an insightful meta analysis of factors contributing to the success of schools and an examination of powerful mega trends that are shaping developments in education to offer the first mega analysis in education policy and practice The book spans fifty years beginning with Caldwell and Spinks ground breaking work The Self Managing School which advocated innovative approaches that are now accepted as preferred practice before offering a prognosis and plan for the future The book argues that all schools in all settings can secure success for all students in an era where society and the economy are changing constantly and dramatically Although schools find some support in local and global networks externally designed re structuring re staffing or command and control direction isn t sufficient to achieve transformation Instead of replicating particular approaches to achieve modest improvement leadership of the highest quality needs to be deeply embedded in schools and their systems Caldwell and Spinks propose three important points that need to be taken into consideration schools are often at different stages of self transformation self transformation requires a high level of professionalism and must include teacher education and on going professional development funding is critically important and efforts to build a capacity for self transformation are constrained by what is available The book gives particular attention to developments in Australia Brazil Canada England Finland Hong Kong India New Zealand Shanghai Singapore and the United States It will be of key interest to school leaders policy makers and academics and postgraduate students engaged in research on equity student performance in highly disadvantaged settings and education policy
