Technologies Jonathan Kwik,2024-08-02 This monograph provides a practical and operational perspective to the question of how to lawfully employ autonomous weapon systems AWS from the point of view of the technology s end users field commanders While there is international consensus that targeting rules such as proportionality and precautions must be respected when using AWS there is legal and practical ambiguity as to how to translate this normative commitment into practice How are commanders in the field when guns are already blazing expected to exercise command and control when ordering AWS attacks and ensure that their targeting obligations remain fulfilled The book discusses how commanders can use existing targeting frameworks to ensure that their use of AWS remains in compliance with the rules governing the conduct of hostilities It invites the reader to step into the shoes of the military commander with all the operational pressure and uncertainty inherent to this position and explores amongst others How to maintain control of AWS throughout a targeting cycle How to make informed and reasoned deployment decisions by analysing information related to the technical parameters of the AWS the characteristics of the operational environment and enemy countermeasures Under which circumstances AWS may not be used under targeting rules such as indiscriminate attack proportionality and the duty to cancel suspend What extra precautionary measures unique to AWS technology can and should be employed When it is militarily desirable to employ AWS over other alternatives and Under what circumstances criminal liability may be attributed for AWS related harm It offers both academic and practical outputs new legal and doctrinal insights on the technology that is useful for future legal developments and workable recommendations and efficient flowcharts that can be adopted by commanders military organisations or policymakers to ensure IHL compliant deployment of AWS Dr Jonathan Kwik is a researcher at the T M C Asser Institute in The Hague specialised in artificial intelligence and targeting law and is a member of the Board of Experts of the Asia Pacific Journal of International Humanitarian Law

Public Transport Planning with Smart Card Data Fumitaka Kurauchi, Jan-Dirk Schmöcker, 2017-02-17 Collecting fares through smart cards is becoming standard in most advanced public transport networks of major cities around the world Travellers value their convenience and operators the reduced money handling fees Electronic tickets also make it easier to integrate fare systems to create complex time and space differentiated fare systems and to provide incentives to specific target groups A less utilised benefit is the data collected through smart cards Records even if anonymous provide for a much better understanding of passengers travel behaviour as current literature shows This information can also be used for better service planning Public Transport Planning with Smart Card Data handles three major topics how passenger behaviour can be estimated using smart card data how smart card data can be combined with other trip databases and how the public transport service level can be better evaluated if smart card data is available The book discusses theory as well as applications from cities around the world and will be of interest to researchers and practitioners alike who are interested in the state of the art as well as future perspectives that smart card data will bring
