any perioperative environment Strong practical focus Edited by two of the biggest names in the international perioperative nursing sphere with contributions from other well known and authoritative sources Excellent opportunities to develop links with the National Association of Theatre Nurses and the European Operating Room Association The team of contributors are experienced practitioners working directly with perioperative patients or in perioperative education An original model for ethical practice is proposed the Reid model is the first such ethical model to be proposed for the perioperative environment Includes one of the only chapters in any perioperative book which specifically focuses on the care of the elderly The research chapter encourages the use of evidence based practice and the development of perioperative research The unique chapter on care of the mentally ill will support practitioners who are not qualified in psychiatry to care for mentally ill patients This is an area where there is a great information deficit Key points listed for each chapter Sections have been completely revised from previous edition key subject areas now stand alone chapters rather than sections within much larger chapters creates ease of access for user Change of editorship Recognises the diversity of perioperative environments much more explicitly than previous edition New Zealand Medical Journal ,1981 Postgraduate Medical Studies in Kuwait Edward Ruzyllo,2013-11-11 Oxford Handbook of Perioperative Practice ,2022-12-06 Filled with clinical information and practical advice this second edition of the Oxford Handbook of Perioperative Practice has been substantially updated to reflect changes in the field Taking a logical sequence to follow the journey of the patient from anaesthesia to surgery then on to the post anaesthetic recovery area it provides guidance on all aspect of patient care and support Specialty surgery such as bariatric surgery has been included in a new chapter to cover developments in the field and the increase in NHS provision of these services since the first edition was published This has been reflected in covering the pre surgical requirements to newer types of surgery including psychological interventions and implications for practitioners who need to cover anaesthetics surgery and post anaesthetic care separately With easy to access information about essential information and various medical conditions this volume has been written by expert teaching staff and clinicians who work within the speciality Unique and indispensable this book gives a wealth of practical information at your fingertips Logistics management operationalised in a healthcare context Malin Wiger,2018-05-14 Healthcare improvements is constantly relevant and an important topic Healthcare is frequently being called upon to be more cost efficient and still fulfil demands regarding waiting times quality and availability Experience from structural changes in other contexts gives reason to be positive about the potential for logistics improvements in the healthcare sector as well From a logistics perspective patients pass different care functions units organisations and health facilities It is assumed that logistics management knowledge applied in healthcare can lead to lower costs shorter waiting times better patient service shorter treatment times and increased capacity This dissertation therefore presents an exploration of how logistics management theories can be operationalised in a healthcare context to understand care chain effectiveness Theoretically the operationalisation is done by

systems theory creating compatibility between logistics management theories and the healthcare context As a first step features for a logistics system forms features for achieving care chain effectiveness High care chain effectiveness is thus a desired condition and the care delivery system is the tool to achieve it As the final step in the operationalisation the features for care chain effectiveness are in turn used to analyse today s practices Empirically the research is based on qualitative data from a single case study with multiple units of analysis It includes four care units at one of Sweden s university hospitals where the data is gathered through interviews insight into management systems and document analysis One of the main results is the 21 areas identified for analysing today s practices by means of features for care chain effectiveness Another main result is the four important concepts revealed through the operationalisation Lead time the episode of care from order to delivery as the amount of time for patient cases between first contact with healthcare and the last Patient order fulfilment fulfilment of patients needs broken down into several smaller steps performed over time within different care units in one or several organisations consisting of five sub processes order handling diagnosis treatment follow up and discharge True demand patients needs that is to be met and thus sets what care to deliver i e the production plan and the subordinate resource plan System boundaries defines which care units to include when focusing on the care delivery system s performance as a whole and should be more important than the performance and productivity of each individual care unit A number of direct suggestions for care chain improvement can also be found in the concluding remarks for example that objectives linked to economic influx or penalty narrow the system and that lead time data on an aggregated level is needed to cover episodes of care The theoretical contribution of the dissertation is to the field of logistics management through the methodological development of using these theories in a new context The managerial contribution is to healthcare managers through providing opportunities to improve care chains primarily by means of a greater understanding of care delivery systems
