Black Music, Black Poetry Gordon E. Thompson, 2016-04-15 Black Music Black Poetry offers readers a fuller appreciation of the diversity of approaches to reading black American poetry It does so by linking a diverse body of poetry to musical genres that range from the spirituals to contemporary jazz The poetry of familiar figures such as Paul Laurence Dunbar and Langston Hughes and less well known poets like Harryette Mullen or the lyricist to Pharaoh Sanders Amos Leon Thomas is scrutinized in relation to a musical tradition contemporaneous with the lifetime of each poet Black music is considered the strongest representation of black American communal consciousness and black poetry by drawing upon such a musical legacy lays claim to a powerful and enduring black aesthetic The contributors to this volume take on issues of black cultural authenticity of musical imitation and of poetic performance as displayed in the work of Paul Laurence Dunbar Langston Hughes Sterling Brown Amiri Baraka Michael Harper Nathaniel Mackey Jayne Cortez Harryette Mullen and Amos Leon Thomas Taken together these essays offer a rich examination of the breath of black poetry and the ties it has to the rhythms and forms of black music and the influence of black music on black poetic practice

The Postwar African American Novel Stephanie Brown, 2011-03-14 Americans in the World War II era bought the novels of African American writers in unprecedented numbers But the names on the books lining shelves and filling barracks trunks were not the now familiar Richard Wright and Ralph Ellison but Frank Yerby Chester Himes William Gardner Smith and J Saunders Redding In this book Stephanie Brown recovers the work of these innovative novelists overturning conventional wisdom about the writers of the period and the trajectory of African American literary history She also questions the assumptions about the relations between race and genre that have obscured the importance of these once influential creators Wright's Native Son 1940 is typically considered to have inaugurated an era of social realism in African American literature And Ellison's Invisible Man 1952 has been cast as both a high mark of American modernism and the only worthy stopover on the way to the Black Arts Movement of the 1960s But readers in the late 1940s purchased enough copies of Yerby's historical romances to make him the best selling African American author of all time Critics meanwhile were taking note of the generic experiments of Redding Himes and Smith while the authors themselves questioned the obligation of black authors to write protest instead penning campus novels war novels and in Yerby's case costume dramas Their status as lesser lights is the product of retrospective bias Brown demonstrates and their novels established the period immediately following World War II as a pivotal moment in the history of the African American novel

African American Novels in the Black Lives Matter Era

E. Lâle Demirtürk, 2019-08-09 African American Novels in the Black Lives Matter Era Transgressive Performativity of Black Vulnerability as Praxis in Everyday Life explores the undoing of whiteness by black people who dissociate from scripts of black criminality through radical performative reiterations of black vulnerability It studies five novels that challenge the embodied discursive practices of whiteness in interracial social encounters showing how they use strategic performances of Blackness to enable subversive practices in everyday life which is constructed and governed by white mechanisms of racialized control The agency portrayed in these novels opens up alternative spaces of Blackness to impact the social world and effects transformative change as a forceful critique of everyday life African American Novels in the Black Lives Matter Era shows how these novels reformulate the problem of black vulnerability as a constitutive source of the right to life in their refusal of subjection to vulnerability enacted by white institutional and individual forms of violence It positions a white/black encounter oriented reading of these neo resistance novels of the Black Lives Matter era as a critique of everyday life in an effort to explore spaces of radical performativity of blackness to make happen social change and transformation
