

Jackie Robinson

(Born: 1919; Died: 1972)

Jackie Robinson was a great athlete. In college, he starred in football, basketball, baseball, and track. In 1945, he began playing baseball in the Negro League. At that time, only white players could be in the Major Leagues. Then Branch Rickey asked Jackie to play on his Major League team, the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Jackie was very brave. People booed and shouted insults. Players got rough with him on the field. His own teammates turned against him. But Jackie didn't give in. He fought back by playing the game better than ever. In his first season, he was Rookie of the Year. Soon, he was Most Valuable Player. Then, more teams signed African Americans. Jackie had paved the way. He began speaking out about civil rights. In 1955, Jackie helped his team win the World Series. In 1962, he became the first African American to enter the Baseball Hall of Fame. Jackie Robinson helped make baseball great. He also helped make America great.
