

Part 1: Multiple Choice. Circle the letter corresponding to the best answer.

1. A new headache remedy was given to a group of 25 subjects who had headaches. Four hours after taking the new remedy, 20 of the subjects reported that their headaches had disappeared. From this information you conclude
 - (a) that the remedy is effective for the treatment of headaches.
 - (b) nothing, because the sample size is too small.
 - (c) nothing, because there is no control group for comparison.
 - (d) that the new treatment is better than aspirin.
 - (e) that the remedy is not effective for the treatment of headaches.

2. We wish to draw a sample of 5 without replacement from a population of 50 households. Suppose the households are numbered 01, 02, . . . , 50, and suppose that the relevant line of the random number table is 11362 35692 96237 90842 46843 62719 64049 17823.
Then the households selected are
 - (a) households 11 13 36 62 73
 - (b) households 11 36 23 08 42
 - (c) households 11 36 23 23 08
 - (d) households 11 36 23 56 92
 - (e) households 11 35 96 90 46

3. A maple sugar manufacturer wants to estimate the average trunk diameter of Sugar Maples trees in a large forest. There are too many trees to list them all and take a SRS, so he divides the forest into several hundred 10 meter by 10 meter plots, selects 25 plots at random, and measures the diameter of every Sugar Maple in each one. This is an example of a
 - (a) multistage sample.
 - (b) stratified sample.
 - (c) simple random sample.
 - (d) cluster sample.
 - (e) convenience sample.

4. A researcher for a consumer products company is field testing a new formula for laundry detergent. He has contracted with 60 families, each with two children, who have agreed to test the product. He randomly assigns 30 families to the group that will use the new formula and 30 to the group that will use the company's current detergent formula. The most important reason for this random assignment is that
 - (a) randomization makes the analysis easier since the data can be collected and entered into the computer in any order.
 - (b) randomization eliminates the impact of any confounding variables.
 - (c) randomization is a good way to create two groups of 30 families that are as similar as possible, so that comparisons can be made between the two groups.
 - (d) randomization ensures that the study is double-blind.
 - (e) randomization reduces the impact of outliers.

Behavioral Sciences Joan Welkowitz,Barry H. Cohen,Robert B. Ewen,2006-09-11 A comprehensive and user friendly introduction to statistics now revised and updated Introductory Statistics for the Behavioral Sciences has had a long and successful history and is a popular and well respected statistics text Now in its sixth edition the text has been thoroughly revised to present all the topics students in the behavioral sciences need in a uniquely accessible format that aids in the comprehension and implementation of the statistical analyses most commonly used in the behavioral sciences Using a continuous narrative that explains statistics and tracks a common data set throughout the authors have developed an innovative approach that makes the material unintimidating and memorable providing a framework that connects all of the topics in the text and allows for easy comparison of different statistical analyses New features in this Sixth Edition include Different aspects of a common data set are used to illustrate the various statistical methods throughout the text with an emphasis on drawing connections between seemingly disparate statistical procedures and formulas Computer exercises based on the same large data set and relevant to that chapter s content The data set can be analyzed by any available statistical software New Bridge to SPSS sections at the end of each chapter explain for those using this very popular statistical package how to perform that chapter s statistical procedures by computer and how to translate the output from SPSS New chapters on multiple comparisons and repeated measures ANOVA Essentials of Statistics for the Behavioral Sciences Susan A. Nolan,Thomas Heinzen,2010-02-12 Enables students to learn how to choose the appropriate statistical test understand its conceptual significance and calculate each statistics The text teaches students to apply concepts and formulas to statistical questions that they will encounter both in their academic lives and outside the classroom The Practice of Statistics Daren S. Noether,2012-12-06 The introductory statistics course presents serious pedagogical problems to the instructor For the great majority of students the course represents the only formal contact with statistical thinking that he or she will have in college Students come from many different fields of study and a large number suffer from math anxiety Thus an instructor who is willing to settle for some limited objectives will have a much better chance of success than an instructor who aims for a broad exposure to statistics Many statisticians agree that the primary objective of the introductory statistics course is to introduce students to variability and uncertainty and how to cope with them when drawing inferences from observed data Additionally the introductory COurse should enable students to handle a limited number of useful statistical techniques The present text which is the successor to the author s Introduction to Statistics A Nonparametric Approach Houghton Mifflin Company Boston 1976 tries to meet these objectives by introducing the student to the ba sic ideas of estimation and hypothesis testing early in the course after a rather brief introduction to data organization and some simple ideas about probability Estimation and hypothesis testing are discussed in terms of the two sample problem which is both conceptually simpler and more realistic than the one sample problem that customarily serves as the basis for the discussion of statistical inference
