

Geological setting

The study area is located in the northern part of the Tianshan mountain range, where the Qilian mountain range meets the Tianshan mountain range. The geological environment is characterized by high-altitude mountainous terrain, with complex geological structures and significant geological processes.

The geological environment is characterized by high-altitude mountainous terrain, with complex geological structures and significant geological processes. The geological environment is characterized by high-altitude mountainous terrain, with complex geological structures and significant geological processes.
