The Geopolitics of Spectacle Natalie Koch, 2018-06-15 Why do autocrats build spectacular new capital cities In The Geopolitics of Spectacle Natalie Koch considers how autocratic rulers use spectacular projects to shape state society relations but rather than focus on the standard approach on the project itself she considers the unspectacular others The contrasting views of those from the poorest regions toward these new national capitals help her develop a geographic approach to spectacle Koch uses Astana in Kazakhstan to exemplify her argument comparing that spectacular city with others from resource rich nondemocratic nations in central Asia the Arabian Peninsula and Southeast Asia The Geopolitics of Spectacle draws new political geographic lessons and shows that these spectacles can be understood only from multiple viewpoints sites and temporalities Koch explicitly theorizes spectacle geographically and in so doing extends the analysis of governmentality into new empirical and theoretical terrain With cases ranging from Azerbaijan to Qatar and Myanmar and an intriguing account of reactions to the new capital of Astana from the poverty stricken Aral Sea region of

Kazakhstan Koch's book provides food for thought for readers in human geography anthropology sociology urban studies political science international affairs and post Soviet and central Asian studies The Politics of Bad Options Stefanie Walter, Ari Ray, Nils Redeker, 2020-11-12 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4.0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Academic and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Why was the Eurozone crisis so difficult to resolve Why was it resolved in a manner in which some countries bore a much larger share of the pain than other countries Why did no country leave the Eurozone rather than implement unprecedented austerity Who supported and opposed the different policy options in the crisis domestically and how did the distributive struggles among these groups shape crisis politics Building on macro level statistical data original survey data from interest groups and qualitative comparative case studies this book argues and shows that the answers to these questions revolve around distributive struggles about how the costs of the Eurozone crisis should be divided among countries and within countries among different socioeconomic groups Together with divergent but strongly held ideas about the right way to conduct economic policy and asymmetries in the distribution of power among actors severe distributive concerns of important actors lie at the root of the difficulties of resolving the Eurozone crisis as well as the difficulties to substantially reform EMU The book provides new insights into the politics of the Eurozone crisis by emphasizing three perspectives that have received scant attention in existing research a comparative perspective on the Eurozone crisis by systematically comparing it to previous financial crises an analysis of the whole range of policy options including the ones not chosen and a unified framework that examines crisis politics not just in deficit debtor but also in surplus creditor countries
