2013 English Regents Scoring Guide:

  Achieving Next Generation Literacy Maureen Connolly,Vicky Giouroukakis,2016-04-29 As a teacher what you want most is for your students to learn to immerse themselves in rich and challenging content and leave your classroom better prepared for school and life In English language arts and humanities this includes developing the multifaceted reading writing thinking and communication skills that constitute next generation literacy including the ability to Read complex text independently Develop strong content knowledge through reading writing listening and speaking Tailor communication in response to different audiences tasks purposes and disciplines Comprehend text as well as critique it Value evidence in arguments they read hear or develop Use technology strategically and capably Understand perspectives and cultures that differ from their own But as a teacher you also know how much is riding on THOSE TESTS achievement tests from the national assessment consortia the SAT and ACT and independent state assessments Is it possible to help students succeed on mandated tests without sacrificing your values your creativity and their education Yes it is possible This book shows you how This not a test prep book It is not about drill and kill practices that narrow learning so that students will pass an exam Instead authors Maureen Connolly and Vicky Giouroukakis present a lesson planning approach for the secondary classroom that generates test success as a byproduct of comprehensive literacy learning After a comparative analysis of how current ELA assessments measure literacy they model a backward design based process for using these test items as a tool to create engaging and effective instruction With 6 sample lessons 42 instructional techniques and tips for differentiation this practical resource will empower you to help the students you love become capable literate individuals who are also well prepared to ace high stakes tests   Discipline Problems Tadashi Dozono,2024-05-07 Angel a Black tenth grader at a New York City public school self identifies as a nerd and likes to learn But she s troubled that her history classes leave out events like the genocide and dispossession of Indigenous people in the Americas presenting a sugar coated image of the United States that is at odds with her everyday experience The history I learned in school is simpler she says The world I live in is a lot more complex Angel like every student interviewed in Discipline Problems has been identified by teachers as a troublemaker a student whose behavior disrupts classroom norms and interferes with instruction But her critiques of the curriculum she s taught speak to her curiosity and insight crucial foundations for understanding history Like many students who have been marginalized by systemic racism in American schools she exposes the shortcomings of her classrooms academic environments by challenging both the content and the methods of her education All too often these challenges are framed as troublemaking and the students are disciplined for acting out instead of being rewarded for their intellectual engagement Tadashi Dozono a professor of education and former high school social studies teacher takes seriously the often overlooked critiques that students of color who get labeled as troublemakers direct toward their high school history curriculum He reinterprets troublemaking usually cast as a behavioral deficit as an intellectual asset and form of reasoning that challenges the disciplining reason of classrooms where whiteness is valued over the histories and knowledge of people of color Dozono shows how what are traditionally framed as discipline problems can be seen through a different lens as responses to educational practices that marginalize non white students Discipline Problems reveals how students of color seek out alternate avenues for understanding their world and imagines a pedagogy that champions the curiosity intellect and knowledge of marginalized learners   Assessing the English Language Writing of Chinese Learners of English Liz Hamp-Lyons,Yan Jin,2022-05-24 This book focuses on the assessment of English language writing in China mainland the territories of Hong Kong and Macau and Taiwan The first part of the book describes how writing in English has been assessed in Chinese contexts in the past 25 years and how it continues to be assessed at present The second part of the book presents reports of work such as formative classroom based assessment feedback based or feedback led approaches learning oriented assessment portfolios as well as the important issue of teacher professional development in writing assessment This two part division relates to and reflects what has been happening in writing assessment internationally in the UK from the 1940s and in the US in the past 25 years The use of English for international business communication for international political negotiations and its rapidly increasing use as a medium of instruction in some subject areas has led to a rapid increase in the numbers of Chinese L1 speakers who are learning and being assessed in English This is often done with an emphasis on reading and writing The vast majority of assessments of English language writing are done through large scale direct testing that uses simple prompts tasks and short writing samples This book explores best practices in assessing the writing in English of native speakers of Chinese Assessing the English Language Writing of Chinese Learners of English edited by long time experts Liz Hamp Lyons and Yan Jin clearly demonstrates the authors collective years of writing and teaching about writing assessment The book s 13 chapters written by recognized experts in assessment of Chinese speakers learning English represent a wide array of important topics written in reader friendly language and offering evidence for pedagogical practices as well as high stakes testing of writing Teachers researchers administrators of writing programs in China and test developers who seek counsel about this population need look no further than to add Assessing the English Language Writing of Chinese Learners of English to their reading list Deborah Crusan Wright State University USA
