Word Wealth: Word wealth junior Ward S. Miller,1958 A Comparison of High School Dropout Rates in 1982 and 1992 Phillip Kaufman,Marilyn McMillen Seastrom,David A. Sweet,1996 The decade of the 1980s saw great change in the educational system This report examines the changing demographics of high school students over the last decade and investigates the impact that these changes may have had on high school dropout rates Specifically the study examined the changing nature of the high school population during the last decade and describes the different effects of various student level characteristics on the propensity for students to drop out of school between 1980 and 1982 compared to 1990 and 1992 The report provides data that depict changes in the characteristics of students families in students economic backgrounds in dropout rates and in the characteristics of dropouts Data show that during the 1980s a growing number of students with characteristics traditionally associated with school failure began attending high school at the same time high school dropout rates decreased by almost 50 percent The declines occurred among students with a variety of characteristics minority and majority students students in intact families and nonintact families and students with children of their own living in their household Many groups of students traditionally considered at risk for school failure dropped out at lower rates in 1990 than in 1980 However there were other groups of students whose dropout rates did not improve These were students from poor families who had histories of poor academic achievement and who had multiple risk factors in their backgrounds The study used data on two cohorts of high school sophomores collected by the National Center for Education Statistics the sophomore cohort of 1980 from the High School and Beyond HS B study and the sophomore cohort of 1990 from the National Education Longitudinal Study of 1988 NELS 88 Appendices contain methodological notes standard error tables and multivariate analyses Eight figures and 57 tables are included LMI Improving Literacy in America Frederick J. Morrison, Heather J. Bachman, Carol McDonald Connor, 2008-10-01 divAn alarmingly high number of American students continue to lack proficiency in reading math and science The various attempts to address this problem have all too often resulted in silver bullet solutions such as reducing class size or implementing voucher programs But as the authors of this critically important book show improving literacy also requires an understanding of complex and interrelated social issues that shape a child s learning More than twenty years of research demonstrate that literacy success is determined by a combination of sociocultural forces including parenting preschool classroom instruction and other factors that have a direct impact on a child s development Here Frederick J Morrison Heather J Bachman and Carol McDonald Connor present the most up to date research on the diverse factors that relate to a child s literacy development from preschool through early elementary school Urging greater emphasis on the immediate sources of influence on children the authors warn against simple single solutions that ignore other pivotal aspects of the problem In a concluding chapter the authors propose seven specific recommendations for improving literacy recommendations that can make a real difference in American education DIV Under the Nuclear Shadow Fiona S. Cunningham, 2025-01-07 How and why China has pursued information age weapons to gain leverage against its adversaries How can states use military force to achieve their political aims without triggering a catastrophic nuclear war Among the states facing this dilemma of fighting limited wars only China has given information age weapons such a prominent role While other countries have preferred the traditional options of threatening to use nuclear weapons or fielding capabilities for decisive conventional military victories China has instead chosen to rely on offensive cyber operations counterspace capabilities and precision conventional missiles to coerce its adversaries In Under the Nuclear Shadow Fiona Cunningham examines this distinctive aspect of China s post Cold War deterrence strategy developing an original theory of strategic substitution When crises with the United States highlighted the inadequacy of China s existing military capabilities Cunningham argues China pursued information age weapons that promised to rapidly provide credible leverage against adversaries Drawing on hundreds of original Chinese language sources and interviews with security experts in China Cunningham provides a rare and candid glimpse from Beijing into the information age technologies that are reshaping how states gain leverage in the twenty first century She offers unprecedented insights into the trajectory of China s military modernization as she details the strengths and weaknesses of China s strategic substitution approach Under the Nuclear Shadow also looks ahead at the uncertain future of China s strategic substitution approach and briefly explores too how other states might seize upon the promise of emerging technologies to address weaknesses in their own military strategies
