

The background is a collage of various sticky notes with handwritten mathematical problems. At the top, a green note shows $7 \div 2 = 2$ and a yellow note shows $3 + 3 = 6$. To the right, an orange note shows $6 = 1/9$. On the left, an orange note shows a long division problem $033/8$. Below that, a yellow note shows $+5=20$. At the bottom, a green note shows $7-2=5$ and a blue note shows $9-3$. On the right side, a red note shows a long division problem $+1/4$ and a purple note shows $10/5/5$.

Mathematics and Philosophy at the Turn of the First Millennium Clelia V. Crialesi, 2025-03-31 At the turn of the first millennium scientific and philosophical knowledge was far from dormant Arithmetic with its diverse calculation techniques and number theory served as a bridge to philosophy theology and the study of the physical world Even something as simple as a series of multiplication tables could unlock a profound knowledge of both the divine realm and natural phenomena Such is the case with Abbo of Fleury's Commentary on the Calculus Mathematics and Philosophy at the Turn of the First Millennium sheds light on Abbo's original philosophical system anchored in two central doctrines which serve as a compass to navigate it the theory of unity henology and the theory of composition Yet the Commentary on the Calculus covers much more The present study thus explores an eclectic range of topics from water clocks to barleycorns constellations to human voice synodic month to the human lifespan and numbers to God Abbo's work is an ambitious attempt to tie together the study of both the visible and invisible realms what can be measured and what cannot what can be quantified and what exceeds quantification Scholars and students of the history of philosophy and mathematics will be introduced to a pivotal figure from an often overlooked era They will be provided with fresh insights into the spread of Neopythagorean doctrines in the early Middle Ages as they learn how these ideas were transmitted through arithmetic texts and harmonised with theology and natural philosophy They will also get to know the medieval fraction system and calculus practices

Mathematics in Twentieth-Century Literature and Art Robert Tubbs, 2014-07-15 Chips away at the notion of an accidental relationship between math and art and literature During the twentieth century many artists and writers turned to abstract mathematical ideas to help them realize their aesthetic ambitions Man Ray Marcel Duchamp and perhaps most famously Piet Mondrian used principles of mathematics in their work Was it mere coincidence or were these artists simply following their instincts which in turn were ruled by mathematical underpinnings such as optimal solutions for filling a space If math exists within visual art can it be found within literary pursuits In short just what is the relationship between mathematics and the creative arts In this provocative original exploration of mathematical ideas in art and literature Robert Tubbs argues that the links are much stronger than previously imagined and exceed both coincidence and commonality of purpose Not only does he argue that mathematical ideas guided the aesthetic visions of many twentieth century artists and writers Tubbs further asserts that artists and writers used math in their creative processes even though they seemed to have no affinity for mathematical thinking In the end Tubbs makes the case that art can be better appreciated when the math that inspired it is better understood An insightful tour of the great masters of the last century and an argument that challenges long held paradigms Mathematics in Twentieth Century Literature and Art will appeal to mathematicians humanists and artists as well as instructors teaching the connections among math literature and art
