Act 2008 Act 778 International Labour Organization:

British Year Book of International Law 2008 James Crawford, Vaughan Lowe, 2009-11-12 The British Year Book of International Law is a key reference resource for academics and practising lawyers providing up to date information on important developments in modern international law

Everyday Transgressions Adelle Blackett, 2019-04-15 The book's breadth and grounding in labor law make it most accessible and useful to a professional audience but even nonspecialists and lay readers will appreciate Blackett's insights about law and domestic work and provocative issues such as social stratification and immigration

Choice Adelle Blackett tells the story behind the International Labour Organization's ILO Decent Work for Domestic Workers Convention No 189 and its accompanying Recommendation No 201 which in 2011 created the first comprehensive international standards to extend fundamental protections and rights to the millions of domestic workers laboring in other peoples homes throughout the world As the principal legal architect Blackett is able to take us behind the scenes to show us how Convention No 189 transgresses the everyday law of the household workplace to embrace domestic workers human rights claim to be both workers like any other and workers like no other In doing so she discusses the importance of understanding historical forms of invisibility recognizes the influence of the domestic workers themselves and weaves in poignant experiences infusing the discussion of laws and standards with intimate examples and sophisticated analyses Looking to the future she ponders how international institutions such as the ILO will address labor market informality alongside national and regional law reform Regardless of what comes next Everyday Transgressions establishes that domestic workers victory is a victory for the ILO and for all those who struggle for an inclusive transnational vision of labor law rooted in social justice

Sustainable Community Development in Ghana Isaac Kofi Biney, John Kwame Boateng, Paul Gary Nixon, 2024-06-28 This book explores sustainable community development in Ghana post COVID 19 highlighting examples of how individuals facing extreme challenges have adapted to their changing circumstances Through the voices of African researchers it explores the different responses that local subnational and national stakeholders and communities initiated to preserve the gains made in achieving the Sustainable Development Goals in Ghana during the global pandemic This collection considers how policy makers are tackling the pressing issues of sustainability climate change and its effects on Africa and Ghana in particular and multi stakeholder policy responses to building communities in a post COVID 19 world The case studies show how communities are interacting to ensure sustainable community development and learning in the Global South and the role that education and learning both formal and informal play in strengthening livelihoods choices and opportunities in African communities An assessment of multi stakeholder policy responses to building communities in Ghana this book will be of interest to scholars and students in the field of Education Education Management Sociology Economics and African Studies It will also be of interest to policy makers and practitioners engaged in community development programmes and activities and the development of associated policies

International Labour Studies Marcus Taylor, 2013-09-13 This volume seeks to re energise the paradigm of the New International Labour Studies by detailing how struggles over the construction reproduction utilisation and restructuring of labour forces are the contested social foundations upon which the global economy stands Through a combination of theoretical works and a series of case studies the volume highlights the cutting edge of international labour studies Its expands on three pivotal areas of study within the discipline 1 the social construction of new labour forces across an expanding international division of labour 2 the self organising potential of workers particularly within non traditional sectors and 3 the possibilities for transborder labour movements to help address the asymmetrical power relationships between globalised capital and localised labour In addressing these themes the volume helps explain not only how the contemporary international division of labour is produced and reproduced but also the strengths and limits to current attempts to overcome its unequal and divisive nature This book was published as a special issue of Third World Quarterly Making Transnational

Law Work in the Global Economy Pieter H. F. Bekker, Rudolf Dolzer, Michael Waibel, 2010-10-28 This tribute to Professor Detlev Vagts of the Harvard Law School brings together his colleagues at Harvard and the American Society of International Law as well as academics judges and practitioners many of them his former students Their essays span the entire spectrum of modern transnational law international law in general transnational economic law and transnational lawyering and dispute resolution The contributors evaluate established fields of transnational law such as the protection of property and investment and explore new areas of law which are in the process of detaching themselves from the nation state such as global administrative law and the regulation of cross border lawyering The implications of decentralised norm making the proliferation of dispute settlement mechanisms and the rising backlash against global legal interdependence in the form of demands for preserving state legal autonomy are also examined The Oxford Handbook of the Sources of International Law Jean d'Aspremont, Samantha Besson, Sévrine Knuchel, 2017-10-19 The question of the sources of international law inevitably raises some well known scholarly controversies where do the rules of international law come from And more precisely through which processes are they made how are they ascertained and where does the international legal order begin and end This is the static question of the pedigree of international legal rules and the boundaries of the international legal order Second what are the processes through which these rules are made This is the dynamic question of the making of these rules and of the exercise of public authority in international law The Oxford Handbook of the Sources of International Law is the very first comprehensive work of its kind devoted to the question of the sources of international law It provides an accessible and systematic overview of the key issues and debates around the sources of international law It also offers an authoritative theoretical guide for anyone studying or working within but also outside international law wishing to understand one of its most foundational questions This Handbook features original essays by leading international law scholars and theorists from a range of traditions nationalities and perspectives reflecting the richness and diversity of scholarship in this area

Gendered Labour, Everyday Security and Migration Shih Joo Tan, 2022-11-03 Drawing on original empirical research from Singapore and Hong Kong Gendered Labour Everyday Security and Migration interrogates women migrant domestic workers experiences of work and workplace exploitation It examines the ways in which these women negotiate everyday security and safe work against the backdrop of affective employment relations and institutional structures of labour and migration law It challenges the current emphasis on the language of exploitation and legal approaches to identifying understanding and rectifying poor employment conditions for women migrant domestic workers This book addresses the limited research literature that examines the extent to which regulatory or criminal justice responses are relevant to and utilised by women migrant domestic workers in their everyday negotiation of safe work and offers a unique contribution to the field An accessible and compelling read it will be of interest to researchers from across the fields of criminology sociology labour migration studies and women s studies

Human Rights at Work Alan Bogg, Hugh Collins, ACL Davies, Virginia Mantouvalou, 2024-10-03 Should workers ever lose their job because of their political views or affiliations Should female employees be entitled to wear a headscarf in the workplace for religious reasons Can it ever be right for an employer to dismiss someone for personal activities undertaken in their leisure time What restrictions if any should be placed on the right to strike Engagingly written this innovative new textbook provides an entry point for exploring these and other topical issues enabling students to analyse the applicability of human rights to disputes between employers and workers in the UK It offers an original perspective on the traditional topics of employment law as well as looking in greater depth at new issues such as employees use of social media or the enforcement of human rights in the gig economy Uniquely the book considers the most important international Conventions that are relevant for the law in the UK especially the European Convention on Human Rights the European Social Charter Conventions of the International Labour Organisation and the Charter of Fundamental Rights of the European Union A central question that each of the chapters addresses is whether UK employment law is compatible with human rights law Each chapter discusses all the key cases drawn from various jurisdictions including the Court of Justice of the European Union and the European Court of Human Rights Written by a stellar team of authors this textbook is an invaluable teaching aid for both postgraduate and undergraduate students studying employment law human rights human resource management and industrial relations

The Law of Global Governance Eyal Benvenisti, 2014-06-11 Also available as an e book The book argues that the decision making processes within international organizations and other global governance bodies ought to be subjected to procedural and substantive legal constraints that are associated domestically with the requirements of the rule of law The book explains why law international regional domestic formal or soft should restrain global actors in the same way that judicial oversight is applied to domestic administrative agencies It outlines the emerging web of global norms designed to protect the rights and interests of all affected individuals to enable public deliberation and to promote the legitimacy of the global bodies These norms are being shaped by a growing convergence of expectations of global institutions to ensure public participation and representation impartiality and independence of decision makers and accountability of decisions The book explores these mechanisms as well as the political and social forces that are shaping their development by analysing the emerging judicial practice concerning a variety of institutions ranging from the UN Security Council and other formal organizations to informal and private standard setting bodies

International Law, Human Rights and Public Opinion Heping Dang, 2017-03-16 This book explores situations in which public opinion presents itself as an obstacle to the protection and promotion of human rights Taking an international law perspective it primarily deals with two questions first whether international law requires States to take an independent stance on human rights issues second whether international law encourages States to inform and mobilise public opinion with regard to core human rights standards The discussion is mainly organised within the framework of the UN system The work is particularly relevant to situations in which public opinion appears as discriminatory attitudes based on race gender age health sexual orientation and other factors It is also pertinent to circumstances in which public opinion is responsible for the existence of certain harmful customs and practices such as female genital mutilation and capital punishment Noting that the death penalty is increasingly recognised as an infringement of human rights this study further challenges States argument that capital punishment cannot be abolished because of public opinion The book also discusses the role that education bears under international law in moulding favourable attitudes towards human rights Finally the book challenges States acceptance that public opinion cannot be confronted in this respect

Routledge Handbook on Labour in Construction and Human Settlements Edmundo Werna, George Ofori, 2023-12-12 Routledge Handbook on Labour in Construction and Human Settlements presents a detailed and comprehensive examination of the relationship between labour and the built environment and synergises these critical focus areas in innovative ways This unrivalled edited collection of chapters analyses problems and presents possible solutions related to the employment and conditions of workers in the construction industry It provides comprehensive coverage of the relationship between the global workforce and the built environment and is divided into four topical areas how labour and the built environment relate to development employment generation in the built environment quality of employment in the built environment and the impact of the built environment on labour in other sectors Underpinning the entire book is the premise that the way the built environment is produced and its main products buildings cities and towns have an impact on large numbers of workers At the same time the quality of the built environment requires construction workers who are well trained and with good working conditions While cities and towns are the engines of economic growth they will not be able to fulfil their economic potential if poverty in the workforce is not addressed Those who are unemployed underemployed or work in unfavourable conditions cannot fully contribute to production and at the same time are limited in their ability to purchase goods and services therefore limiting economic growth and restricting improvements in their living standards In addition investments in infrastructure housing and inner city redevelopment cannot be sustainable if labour issues i e poverty are not addressed This book aims at analysing this complex set of issues comprehensively and will be essential reading to a wide range of researchers across the interdisciplinary intersections of construction business and management economic development urban studies sociology political science and project management The Politics of Educational Reform in Ghana Maxwell A.

Aziabah,2018-07-09 This book comprises six main chapters and addresses the core research question How can the endurance of academic bias in Ghana s secondary education system be explained in the context of educational reform versus change of government concurrence Six sub questions have subsequently been derived from the core research question enabling a comprehensive and rigorous treatment of the subject matter of investigation The manuscript adopts an historical institutionalism approach combining path dependency with partisan theory in explicating structural persistence in the secondary school system in Ghana A case study methodological design procedure has been employed in the investigation of three episodes of educational reform anchored on qualitative content analysis as the main data reduction mechanism
