special significance that art has for our lives This book is about the relation between aesthetics and education in the use of drama Within it philosophy appears as the essential connecting discipline between the practice of arts based education and our advancing knowledge of the interrelations of cognition emotion and embodiment Matthew DeCoursey argues that the power of dramatic art is to be found in its bodily emotional nature Drawing on recent work in the aesthetics of theatre he shows that much of the power of theatre can be attributed to a specific range of ideas and techniques notably including double meaning making aesthetic focus and dramatic tension Finally the author relates different forms of drama education to different educational results holding that the conventional improvised forms are neither superior nor inferior to scripted theatre but merely serve different purposes Among those educational results discussed are the emancipation sought both by Rancière and by many practitioners of applied theatre but also curricular areas including language education
