Biochemical Terminology Antony Mackinlay,2022-10-26 Languages are like organisms they do not appear by spontaneous creation they evolve and so it is with the particular terminology of biochemistry which as I document here largely derives from Latin and Ancient Greek root words In the early part of the 19th century when chemistry had shaken off the shackles of alchemy new elements new compounds new techniques were discovered that needed names It was the classical languages Greek and Latin to which these early scientists turned As chemical approaches were applied to biology much molecular terminology has also derived from these languages In this book the common technical terms encountered in biochemistry and related subjects are defined and their derivation from root words in Latin and Ancient Greek explained

Literature in the Age of Lingua Franca English Justin Quinn,2024-12-30 The English language is now a lingua franca spoken by about two billion people This insightful study considers how a bridge language affects world literature by analyzing what it is how it works what are its themes what it means for canons and how it is mediated Cultural criticism often employs perspectives of race citizenship and colonialism as well as considerations of scale archipelagic planetary form analogies between the literary and the social and technologies as they inflect artifacts These approaches help rethink the new dynamics of anglophone literature but they have often overlooked one of the basic elements of literature the language itself Literatures in English vernaculars have flourished and Justin Quinn shows that writers are also creating a new idiom in English that is not fixed to a particular locale or community While sentences may become simpler the vocabulary range narrower and rich cultural references lost Quinn reveals how much this new form of writing gains He explores the work of a wide range of authors including Daisy Hildyard Kim Stanley Robinson Bryan Washington Yiyun Li and Terrance Hayes Literature in the Age of Lingua Franca English The Zero Style is an innovative and illuminating resource for students and scholars of global anglophone literature comparative literature and cultural studies

Approximate Gestures Anthony Stewart,2020-07-08 In Approximate Gestures Anthony Stewart argues that the writing of Percival Everett the acclaimed author of Erasure and more than twenty other works of fiction compels readers to retrain their thinking habits and to value uncertainty Stewart maintains that Everett s fiction challenges its interpreters to question their assumptions consider the spaces in between categories and embrace the potential of a larger more uncertain world in an effort to confront bigotry and similarly limiting patterns of thought Drawing on the work of Gilles Deleuze and Félix Guattari Stewart proposes that their notion of the schizorevolutionary figure captures the in between status of many of Everett's characters as they refuse the constraints of the binary categorical structures that govern so much of human life Approximate Gestures engages specifically with the vexed question of discussing race in Everett's fiction Stewart frames the stakes of analyzing such subject matter in the writing of an African American novelist whose work rigorously questions critical approaches to race Requiring readers to engage with black males who are hydrologists ranchers college professors romance novelists and in one case a toddler means entering a world released from habitual frames of reference Through an examination of a broad selection of novels Stewart demonstrates the extent to which Everett's characters inhabit infinite spaces in between conventional categories and understand themselves as subjects attempting to navigate social and psychological worlds Approximate Gestures Infinite Spaces in the Fiction of Percival Everett encourages readers and critics to think more deeply about how they position themselves in and engage with the world around them As one of the first books of literary criticism devoted to Everett's fiction Stewart's pathbreaking study models a method for reading the formidable body of work being produced by a major contemporary writer

Eoyang, 2021-11-01 This eclectic collection of essays focuses on a number of intriguing issues in translation some of these polemic essays challenge certain widespread beliefs and practices for example the belief that humor is untranslatable the assumption that translations are always inferior to the originals the spread of translations that are more impenetrable to the target audience than the originals ever were to the source language audience above all the notion that translation is a marginal rather than a major area of study indeed as one essay suggests translation may represent a model of thought and translating a mode of thinking These essays also consider the international trade in translations the ratio of translations out of the language and of translations into the language as a possible index to historical development analyze the humor that can be translated as well as the humor that cannot be translated uncover the implicit indicators of time and place in traditional Chinese poetry offering thereby a study in comparative deictics examine the hermeneutics of Old Testament exegeses which unlike the modern world privileged the oral over the written word discuss the subtle but definable differences between translations that appropriate previous versions by way of allusion and quotation and translations that merely plagiarize In the final section entitled Divertissements Eugene Eoyang provides an exposition of his translation of a poem first published in the People's Daily and since banned that contained a hidden and decidedly hostile acrostic in which the challenge was not only to convey the original meaning but also to preserve the disguise of the original meaning in the Chinese text The translation appeared in The New York Times He also offers a wry typology of translators comparing them metaphorically and paronomastically to different species of birds in a concluding coda he excavates the place names in bicultural and multilingual Hong Kong uncovering not only translations and transliterations but also heteronyms different names for the same place as well as remarkably phononyms names where the pronunciation of a word in one language happens to coincide with a word in another language with the same meaning The result is a provocative potpourri of fascinating insights into the cultural and semiotic complexities of translation that will surely interest students of translation literature linguistics and history as well as the informed general reader
