Lamentations Tod Linafelt, 2000-07 Most contemporary interpretations of the biblical book of Lamentations focus on the figure of the suffering man as a role model for submission in the face of God s punishment for sin Yet such a model offers small consolation to survivors of the Holocaust or other mass atrocities and also ignores chapters 1 and 2 of Lamentations in which the personification of Zion laments her sufferings and demands a response on behalf of her dying children In Surviving Lamentations Tod Linafelt offers an alternative reading of Lamentations in light of the literature of survival works written by survivors of catastrophe as well as literary and philosophical reflections on the survival of literature He refocuses attention on the figure of Zion as a manifestation of a basic need to give voice to suffering and traces the afterlife of Lamentations in Jewish literature in which text after text attempts to provide the response to Zion s lament that is lacking in Lamentations itself Seen through Linafelt s eyes Lamentations emerges as uncannily relevant to contemporary discourse on survival

Runes and Roman Letters in Anglo-Saxon Manuscripts Victoria Symons, 2016-10-24 This book presents the first comprehensive study of Anglo Saxon manuscript texts containing runic letters To date there has been no comprehensive study of these works in a single volume although the need for such an examination has long been recognized This is in spite of a growing academic interest in the mise en page of early medieval manuscripts The texts discussed in this study include Old English riddles and elegies the Cynewulfian poems charms Solomon and Saturn I and the Old English Rune Poem The focus of the discussion is on the literary analysis of these texts in their palaeographic and runological contexts Anglo Saxon authors and scribes did not of course operate within a vacuum and so these primary texts are considered alongside relevant epigraphic inscriptions physical objects and historical documents Victoria Symons argues that all of these runic works are in various ways thematically focused on acts of writing visual communication and the nature of the written word The conclusion that emerges over the course of the book is that when encountered in the context of Anglo Saxon manuscripts runic letters consistently represent the written word in a way that Roman letters do not

Crafting Jewishness in Medieval England M. Krummel,2011-01-31 Miriamne Ara Krummel challenges the accepted history of the English Middle Ages as a monolithic age of Christian faith By cataloguing and explicating the complex depictions of semitisms to be found in medieval literature and material culture this volume argues that Jews were always present in medieval England Becoming a Poet in Anglo-Saxon England Emily V. Thornbury,2014-01-30 A groundbreaking study of pre Conquest English poets that rethinks the social role of Anglo Saxon verse

The Aura of the Word in the Early Age of Print (1450-1600) Samuel Mareel, 2017-07-05 Did the invention of movable type change the way that the word was perceived in the early modern period? In his groundbreaking essay The Work of Art in the Age of Mechanical Reproduction, the cultural critic Walter Benjamin argued that reproduction drains the image of its aura by which he means the authority that a work of art obtains from its singularity and its embeddedness in a particular context. The central question in The Aura of the Word in the Early Age of Print 1450-1600 is whether the dissemination of text through print had a similar effect on the status of the word in the early modern period. In this volume, contributors from a variety of fields look at manifestations of the early modern word in English, French, Latin, Dutch, German, and Yiddish as entities whose significance derived not simply from their semantic meaning but also from their relationship to their material support, to the physical context in which they are located, and to the act of writing itself. Rather than viewing printed text as functional and lacking in materiality, contributors focus on how the placement of a text could affect its meaning and significance. The essays also consider the continued vitality of pre-printing press kinds of text, such as the illuminated manuscript, and how new practices, such as the veneration of handwriting, sprung up in the wake of the invention of movable type.

Assessing Students with Poetry Writing Across Content Areas Sarah J. Donovan, Kim Johnson, Anna J. Small, Roseboro, Barbara Edler, Gayle Sands, 2025-09-01 Assessing Students with Poetry Writing Across Content Areas reimagines formative assessment by advocating for a dynamic poetic approach that delves into students' meaning-making processes. It is a guide for teachers seeking innovative approaches to formative assessment, promoting a holistic, creative, reflective, and collaborative learning environment. It challenges the limitations of traditional worksheets and quizzes, urging educators to move beyond seeking restrictive answers and embrace students' texts as pathways to understanding. The authors put forward poetry as a vigorous tool, and writing poetry as an act to foster deep learning across content areas. Practical examples of acrostic poems, haiku, and pantoum demonstrate the adaptability of poetic forms to diverse subjects. Through adaptable lesson plans that can be used across history, math, world languages, ELA, and science, the book encourages intentional poetic writing to learn activities and explores how poetry might present itself as a short creative assessment tool that helps teachers see what their students know and can do while also offering them the space to make new meaning in their original poetry. This book is a key resource for in-service educators teaching grades 6-12.

Jews in Medieval England Miriamne Ara Krummel, Tison Pugh, 2018-01-08 This volume examines the teaching of Jewishness within the context of medieval England. It covers a wide array of academic disciplines and addresses a multitude of primary sources, including medieval English manuscripts, law codes, philosophy, art, and literature, in explicating how the Jew as Other was formed. Chapters are devoted to the teaching of the complexities of medieval Jewish experiences in the modern classroom. Jews in Medieval England: Teaching Representations of the Other also grounds medieval conceptions of the Other within the contemporary world where we continue to confront the problematic attitudes directed toward alleged social outcasts

What the Furies Bring Kenneth Sherman, 2009 In the foreword to his new book What the Furies Bring acclaimed poet and essayist Kenneth Sherman asks in the wake of 9 11 What help is writing to the writer What help to the reader Examining the works of authors who have lived and written under great duress Sherman suggests how writing can serve as equipment for living He contemplates Primo Levi's desire to tell his story a yearning that kept the Holocaust survivor writing through periods of crushing depression Sherman's insight into the ways diary writing afforded Chaim Kaplan and Anne Frank a means to keep their sanity and humanity under the most harrowing conditions will prove inspirational to readers In The Angel of Disease Sherman examines the curative aspects of writing by discussing authors who though critically ill persisted in their quest for the right word Sherman's book is not limited to writers from our past He captures our current situation in Poetry and Terrorism a prescient essay that delves into the moral and aesthetic considerations brought to the foreground since the terrorist attacks on NYC He follows this with essays that consider whether contemporary poets and novelists have risen to the task of articulating the new age The furies in Sherman's title belong to history and what they bring is not only destruction but the opportunity to transform our art and ourselves

Ashgate Critical Essays on Early English Lexicographers Christine Franzen, 2017-03-02 Anglo Saxon lexicography studies Latin texts and words The earliest English lexicographers are largely unidentifiable students teachers scholars and missionaries Materials brought from abroad by early teachers were augmented by their teachings and passed on by their students Lexicographical material deriving from the early Canterbury school remains traceable in glossaries throughout this period but new material was constantly added Aldhelm and Irfic Bata among others wrote popular much studied hermeneutic texts using rare exotic words often derived from glossaries which then contributed to other glossaries Irfic of Eynsham is a rare identifiable early English lexicographer unusual in his lack of interest in hermeneutic vocabulary The focus is largely on context and the process of creation and intended use of glosses and glossaries Several articles examine intellectual centres where scholars and texts came together for example Theodore and Hadrian in Canterbury Aldhelm in Malmesbury Dunstan at Christ Church Canterbury thelwold in Winchester King thelstan's court Abingdon Glastonbury and Worcester

The Song of Songs in the Early Middle Ages Hannah W. Matis, 2019-01-28 In The Song of Songs in the Early Middle Ages Hannah W Matis examines how the Song of Songs the collection of Hebrew love poetry was understood in the Latin West as an allegory of Christ and the church This reading of the biblical text was passed down via the patristic tradition established by the Venerable Bede and promoted by the chief architects of the Carolingian reform Throughout the ninth century the Song of Songs became a text that Carolingian churchmen used to think about the nature of Christ and to conceptualize their own roles and duties within the church This study examines the many different ways that the Song of Songs was read within its early medieval historical context
