Abstract

Extensive correspondence has been exchanged between the author and the following individuals representing both the private sector and local, state/provincial, and national government agencies for identification and evaluation of existing policies and regulatory systems, other ongoing projects, and the relevant knowledge and experience regarding the topic. This correspondence has facilitated the development of a preliminary conceptual framework. It has allowed the author to identify their knowledge and skills in the research, which would help define an understanding of the current situation of transportation legislation and implementation of transportation systems in Canada. Understanding of this situation will allow for further research development and planning of relevant projects.
