

4000-Word Essay: Basic Structure

1 Introduction

An introduction grabs readers' attention, introduces the topic, and presents a thesis statement.

2 Main Body

Body paragraphs discuss, illustrate, or defend the thesis statement. The main body of a 4000-word essay is usually divided into sections with headings and subheadings.

3 Conclusion

A conclusion restates the thesis, summarizes the main points, and highlights the broader implications of the topic.

Adler-Kassner,Barry Alford,Jane Detweiler,Heidi Estrem,Susanmarie Harrington,Maureen McBride,Eric Stalions,Scott Weeden,2009-09-01 Educators strive to create assessment cultures in which they integrate evaluation into teaching and learning and match assessment methods with best instructional practice But how do teachers and administrators discover and negotiate the values that underlie their evaluations Bob Broad s 2003 volume What We Really Value introduced dynamic criteria mapping DCM as a method for eliciting locally informed context sensitive criteria for writing assessments The impact of DCM on assessment practice is beginning to emerge as more and more writing departments and programs adopt adapt or experiment with DCM approaches For the authors of Organic Writing Assessment the DCM experience provided not only an authentic assessment of their own programs but a nuanced language through which they can converse in the always vexing potentially divisive realm of assessment theory and practice Of equal interest are the adaptations these writers invented for Broad s original process to make DCM even more responsive to local needs and exigencies Organic Writing Assessment represents an important step in the evolution of writing assessment in higher education This volume documents the second generation of an assessment model that is regarded as scrupulously consistent with current theory it shows DCM s flexibility and presents an informed discussion of its limits and its potentials Philosophy as a Literary Art Costica

Bradatan,2016-04-14 Despite philosophers growing interest in the relation between philosophy and literature in general over the last few decades comparatively few studies have been published dealing more narrowly with the literary aspects of philosophical texts The relationship between philosophy and literature is too often taken to be literature as philosophy and very rarely philosophy as literature It is the dissatisfaction with this one sidedness that lies at the heart of the present volume Philosophy has nothing to lose by engaging in a serious process of literary self analysis On the contrary such an exercise would most likely make it stronger more sophisticated more playful and especially more self reflexive By not moving in this direction philosophy places itself in the position of not following what has been deemed since Socrates at least the worthiest of all philosophical ideals self knowledge This book was originally published as a special issue of The European Legacy
