early June 2013 Chinese President Xi Jinping and US President Barack Obama reached a consensus on building a new model of major country relations at the historical Sunnylands meeting in California. In the years that followed the two leaders were committed to that goal despite the different interpretations in its substance. How is the new model of major country relations conceptualized and developed? What renders it possible? Is the major country conflict inevitable? These are the basic issues addressed in this book. Now China-US relations are at a critical juncture. The international community is watching the world's two largest economies and is quite concerned about the future of one of the world's most complicated bilateral relationships. This timely publication of Professor Tao Wenzhao provides us with a realistic approach to managing this vital relationship in a candid and balanced way.

Strenuous Decades Chi-cheung Choi, Tomoko Shiroyama, Venus Viana, 2022-03-07 The movement of goods and passengers between port cities not only stimulates growth in coastal trading networks and centers but also inevitably changes the social and economic lives of people in these port cities and subsequently of their fellow compatriots farther inland. Studies of port cities have focused on the interactive political and economic relationship between trading centers. The center of attention in this book is socioeconomic life and cultural identity which are shaped by the movement of goods, people, knowledge and information, particularly when the community faces a crisis. Transnational studies focus on cross-border connections between people, institutions, commodities and ideas with an emphasis on their global presence. This book looks at the responses of different localities to the same global crisis. It gathers a selection of the fifty papers presented at the conference on Coping with Transnational Crisis: Chinese Economic and Social Lives in East Asian Port Cities 1850-1950 held in Hong Kong on June 7-11, 2016. The period from the 1850s to the outbreak of war in the Pacific in the late 1930s encompasses two major transnational crises with significant impacts on the Chinese population in Southeast Asian port cities in terms of their way of living and the construction of their identity: the emergence of bubonic plague in the 1880s and 1920s and the global economic crisis in the late 1920s and early 1930s. The authors discuss the social and economic lives in various South East Asian port cities where many residents had to cope with these transnational crises. They do so through examining institutional measurements, rituals and festivals, communication, knowledge and information exchange as well as identity reconstruction. In addition, they explore how local communities responded to knowledge and information between the port cities and cities as well as inland locations. The chapters in this book offer solid grounds for future comparisons not only based on a specific time or event but also on how society reacted over time, space and various types of crises.
