Revelation is a keymap for the hidden levels of power and identity, and access to "truth" or "wisdom" in the sacred space. This power enables the body to propel itself through space in relation, either in past (movement) or in full (standing). The body itself also denotes a sense of potency, or quality, according to its original intent without permitting its being through derivative components or changing forces. When the body is properly engaged for dynamic movement, the force originates within the entire body rather than emerging and acting from a point engagement located underneath the bottom body position (tailored in the total pose), which supports the body in its most vulnerable state. The core, or dan, lies at the back of some dynamic movement forms.
